Cong open gates for POWs Friday

SAIGON (UPI) — The Viet Cong today turned over to U.S. authorities a list of 32 POWs who it said would be freed on Friday. The Viet Cong list brought to 140 the number of POWs to be released this week and to the three-quarter mark the number of POWs to be free by Friday.

In Washington, the Pentagon said the list included 27 military personnel and five civilians, all Americans.

The North Vietnamese will release 108 Americans at Hanoi's Gia Lam Airport on Wednesday, including a civilian from Texas who was described as not a member of the U.S. armed forces nor of any U.S. civilian agencies.

The civilian, Bobby Joe Keesee, was on the list of prisoners to be freed Wednesday, but a State Department official in Washington said: "To tell the truth, we're anxious to get him back here and ask him about it ourselves." No one knows for sure how or why Keesee ended up in North Vietnam.

A Viet Cong press officer said it had been planned that the 25 American military prisoners and seven civilians would be freed on Thursday, but the release was rescheduled for Friday because the Communists "will be busy welcoming state guests at Gia Lam (Hanoi's airport)."

A delegation from East Germany was expected in the North Vietnamese capital on Thursday, an American expert on North Vietnamese affairs said.

Officials at Clark Air Base in the Philippines, the reception center for returning POWs, said today the first of three giant C-41 hospital planes that will fly the 108 Americans out of Hanoi is due to return to Clark at about 1:30 p.m. (13:30 a.m. EST Wednesday).

The other two C-41s are due to arrive at Clark at 5:30 p.m. (2:30 a.m. MST) and 6:30 p.m. (3:30 a.m. MST) Wednesday.

Junior colleges due $1.8 million

By DAVID ESPO
Times-News writer

BOISE — The Senate Monday first defeated and then reconsidered and passed $1.8 million in state funding for the state's two junior colleges for the next fiscal year.

The money is an increase of nearly a half million dollars over the current year's state aid from the general fund for academic programs at the College of Southern Idaho in Twin Falls and North Idaho College in Coeur d'Alene.

The $1.8 million figure would bring state support of the two schools to approximately 11 per cent, an increase from the current 36 per cent. It also represents a $350,000 increase over the money requested by Gov. Cecil D. Andrus.

(More on legislature, 5, 6)

D-Burley, James Vost, R-Wendell, voted against it. Sen. John Peavey, R-Rupert, was off the floor when the vote was cast.

After Sen. Arthur Murphy, D-Mullan, requested and gained Senate reconsideration, the appropriations passed, 28-7, with all six Magic Valley senators voting for the bill.

The bill now goes to the governor.

Sen. Dick Smith, R-Rexburg, who voted against the measure on the first roll call, said he was afraid the state of Idaho was moving down a "suicidal road that other states have done" and would then find we can't get back.

He noted that junior college academic support was increasing faster than many other state agencies, and said that an increasing number of state educational institutions could lead to "mediocrity" in the educational system overall.

Sen. Richard Egbert, D-Teton, floor sponsor of the measure, said the money was needed for the state's junior colleges, however.

Sen. Walter Yarbrough, R-Grand View, said junior colleges gave a "bigger dollar return for each dollar invested" than some other educational programs in the state.

Mine controls backed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield gave his support today to strong controls for strip mining of coal. He said coal-rich western states were "not interested in becoming another Appalachia."

Mansfield told the Senate Interior Committee that some coal industry plans for the northern Great Plains were "frightening."

Hungarian NCO defects

SAIGON (UPI) — A Hungarian sergeant of the International Commission for Control and Supervision (ICCS) has defected to Australia, South Vietnamese military sources said today. Two Viet Cong prisoners of war apparently tried to defect today in wild melees, but only one made it to freedom.

The Hungarian was identified as Sgt. Georgiu Wolner, 22. The South Vietnamese said he was placed aboard a plane out of Saigon en route to Sydney Monday after appealing for political asylum. The Australians confirmed the defection and said he had been allowed to emigrate to Australia.

Nixon aide faces call

WASHINGTON (UPI) — John W. Dean III (left), legal counsel to President Nixon, is focus of possible showdown between Senate Judiciary Committee and White House.

Committee members want to summon Dean to testify in his role in probe of Watergate case. A decision was apparently to be reached at a committee meeting scheduled today.

Campora named winner

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — The military government declared a candidate handpicked by ousted former President Juan D. Peron the winner Monday night of the first presidential race in 10 years. It said it accepted the outcome.

But the apparent winner, onetime lieutenant Hector J. Campora, told a cheering crowd early today that he would not serve "even one day" until Peron returns from his Madrid exile.

Engine limits scored

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Ford Motor Co. insisted today that it will be unable to meet anti-pollution standards required for 1976 cars in spite of "all good faith efforts" to develop the technology.

Ford's Vice President Herbert L. Misch testified at an Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) hearing.

Auto-train derailed

HOUSTON, Ga. (UPI) — A Florida-to-Virginia auto train loaded with about 300 passengers and their cars collided with a pulpwood truck at a crossing today, derailling 23 cars, killing the truck driver and injuring about two dozen passengers.

Cordon seals Dakota town

PINE RIDGE, S.D. (UPI) — Federal marshals and FBI agents, beefed up with a 300 per cent increase in manpower and heavy equipment, today tightened their lines around the hamlet of Wounded Knee, seized by militant Indians two weeks ago.

Wyman Babby, area director of the Bureau of Indian Affairs, said he knew of no incidents during the night. "There was no firing as far as I've been told," Babby said.

But where in early stages of the blockade — once lifted and then restored — the federal men had confined their search activities chiefly to roadblocks, today they were patrolling all approaches.

UPI photographer Jim Hubbard attempted an overland entry to Wounded Knee and was turned back. He reported security was "very tight."

It was possible to leave the Ogala Sioux reservation where Pine Ridge and Wounded Knee are located, but the government lines barred entry to Wounded Knee where the Indians have declared they no longer recognize the U.S. government and are setting up one of their own.

"This action was taken because the Indians holding Wounded Knee used the period of time when they had free access to the area to fortify their positions with more weapons and ammunition," Ralph Erickson, special assistant to Attorney General Richard Kleindienst, said Monday in Washington.

House ponders death penalty

(Special to the Times-News)
BOISE (UPI) — The Senate Monday voted to reinstate the death penalty in Idaho, approving 23-12 a measure calling for death for all persons convicted of first degree murder.

The measure, which originated in the House and was amended in the Senate, now goes back to the House.

The proposal would impose the death penalty for persons convicted of premeditated murder, killing of a police officer in the line of duty or a killing done by anyone under sentence for first or second degree murder.

Earlier, the Senate committee gutted the bill to eliminate the death penalty, but that version of the proposal was defeated and new amendments written to reinstate the penalty.

Sen. John Barker, R-Buhl, said the public was "sick and tired of these heinous crimes being committed" without a higher penalty than is now being administered.

Sen. Dane Watkins, R-Idaho Falls, who voted for the measure, said he hoped the next session of the legislature would reinstate the death penalty for crimes other than first degree murder, including rape, arson and kidnapping.

Barker said the figures are rough estimates. Final figures won't be known for some time.

Other districts would see large funding increases: Buhl, $98,000; Filer, $53,000; Hansen, $24,000; Costleford, $25,000; Gooding, $74,000; Wendell, $53,000; Hagerman, $20,000; and Camas schools, $14,000.

Blaine schools, $20,000;

TWIN FALLS — Magic Valley school districts may soon face an unexpected "embarrassment of riches" following big increases in state school support.

First estimates of the increased funding due Valley districts would place the increase in the neighborhood of $80 to $90 per student.

The one-year increase, according to Sen. John M. Barker, R-Buhl, Health Education and Welfare Chairman, will be the largest ever received.

Statewide, the increased net funding to school districts will total about $12.6 million, he said.

That sum comes from an 11-million increase in state appropriation from the general fund into the school formula; 1.1 million increase from endowment earnings going into the school formula; and a half-million dollar net increase from replacing three mills of local property tax support with $3.5 million in state funds.

In addition, state inventory tax replacement funds should rise about $1 million.

The difference to the Magic Valley will be about $2 million this year.

According to Barker, the biggest increase will come to Twin Falls, Minidoka and Cassia School systems.

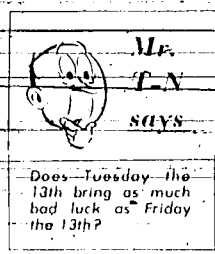

In Twin Falls, total

Railroad contracts approved

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Railroad labor and management announced tentative agreement today on new contracts that would provide half a million railroad workers with a 10.7 per cent increase in wages and fringe benefits over 18 months.

The agreement, subject to ratification by the 14 unions involved, came three and one half months before expiration of the present contracts on June 30.

It calls for a 4 per cent wage increase next Jan. 1 for the rail workers who are now paid an average of $5.31 an hour, according to an announcement by a joint union committee and the National Railway Labor Conference, bargaining agent for the railroads.

Does Tuesday the 13th bring as much bad luck as Friday the 13th?

House approves Idaho abort bill

BOISE (UPI) — Voting for the "lesser of two evils," the House amended the Senate's abortion regulation bill Monday, then approved it 49-19 after two hours of emotional debate.

Rep. Allan T. Larsen, R-Blackfoot, put the question succinctly before the House when he pointed out that even though he believes a Supreme Court decision on abortions was "basically wrong" the court nonetheless has spoken.

"However said it is," Larsen said, "we have a responsibility to protect... a responsibility to see to it abortion mills and factories are not set up."

"It's a disgusting way to face up to it," he said, adding the legislature, however, must do so.

Put forth by Rep. Patricia McDermott, D-Pocatello, the amendment would reinstate Idaho's present anti-abortion law by gubernatorial proclamation if the Supreme Court changes its mind or the constitution of the United States is amended to permit it.

Quoting from a statement by Bishop Sylvester Treinen, the Roman Catholic Bishop of Idaho, Miss McDermott said the legislation approved by the Senate "provides the best protection for the unborn child possible in view of the U.S. Supreme Court's ruling."

OEO shutdown due in April

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Proceeding with its plan to dismantle the Office of Economic Opportunity (OEO), the administration has announced that all 10 regional offices of the anti-poverty agency will be shut down April 26.

Howard Phillips, the acting OEO director, made the announcement Monday, saying it would be "sensible" to prolong the work of the regional offices since President Nixon has announced his determination to make no further funds available to the agency after June 30.

Phillips explained that only 30 days notice normally is provided in reductions in force, but that OEO regional employees were being given a longer time period.

Valley schools strike it rich

Jerome, $127,000; Valley, $12,000; Shoshone, $31,000, and Richfield, $17,000.

Only one district, Three Creeks Elementary, in Twin Falls County, would get no increase. That district, with a huge property valuation, receives little support from the state's equalization formula.

Sen. Barker said the legislative intent is that teachers be given a 10 per cent pay increase over a two year period, with those districts that have not given increases making up the difference next year.

The teacher salary increase could take most of the increased state funding, he said.

Barker said he was pleased with the level of school funding approved by the Legislature.

"I think this is the biggest increase they've ever had," he said. "I would say that Idaho felt that it had to make a real effort on the public school level, particularly to bring Idaho from the position of being about 47th in teacher salaries to at least a better ranking."

"I'm well satisfied. I think we've gone a real step this time," Barker said.

Barker said the increase in the proportion of state aid going to local districts, combined with increased equalization among rich and poor districts "partly meets" the requirements issued in recent court cases that school funding should be equalized.

One case, he said, Rodriguez vs. The San Antonio School District, is currently before the U.S. Supreme Court. A similar case is pending before the Idaho Supreme Court. Either case could result in mandatory equalization, Barker said.

Barker said the state had gone three-eighths of the remaining distance to full equalization this year.

Of a maximum school property tax levy of 27 mills, only five are "unequalized," he said. Under the school formula, state funds are used to equalize income to all districts up to the level of a 22-mill tax.

3 men charged in Stennis shooting

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Three young Washington men were arrested Monday on charges of shooting Sen. John C. Stennis six weeks ago after robbing him outside his fashionable home. They were being arraigned today.

The three men, all from the predominantly black and lower class northeast section of the city, were identified by police as Derrick Holloway, 18, Tyrone I. Marshall, 19, and John S. Marshall, 21. The Marshalls, police said, are brothers.

They were held in the District of Columbia police lockup under $100,000 bond on charges of violating the federal law against attempting to assassinate a congressman and on charges of armed robbery. The federal law was passed in 1968 after the murder of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

The FBI participated along with police in the arrest of Holloway and John Marshall.

Stennis, 71, a Mississippi Democrat who is chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, was shot in the chest and thigh and critically wounded on the evening of Jan. 30 as he stepped from his car in front of his home in the well-to-do Cleveland Park neighborhood of Washington.

He told police two teen-agers demanded his wallet, his gold watch and 25 cents in change before one of them said, "Now we're going to shoot you." According to police at the time, there was no indication the youths knew who they were robbing.

For days after the shooting, Stennis was in critical condition at Walter Reed Army Medical Center and within the week after the shooting underwent two operations. But on March 2, doctors pronounced the senator in good condition and said he was on the road to a full recovery. He is still in the hospital.

The FBI and Washington police announced the arrests. Stennis had helped come up with a composite drawing of one of the suspects, but it was not known what led to the arrests or where they occurred.

Police said, however, that Tyrone Marshall had been arrested earlier Monday on an assault charge and was later linked to the crime.

The shooting set off a fresh clamor on Capitol Hill for stricter gun control laws. President Nixon called the shooting "senseless."

Brain surgery analysis planned

DETROIT (UPI) — A sensitive mixture of science vs. ethics comes under stringent analysis today by a three-judge Wayne County Circuit Court panel hearing arguments on the rights of an alleged killer-rapist slated to undergo experimental brain surgery.

The technical surgery, according to doctors at Lafayette Clinic, a state-funded research clinic, could speed up the release of the inmate, identified only as "Mr. L." He has been confined in various mental institutions for 18 years.

The surgeons contend the experimental operation, in which brain tissue relating to the patient's emotional behavior is destroyed through surgery, electricity or ultrasonic radiation, could "control" his violent behavior.

At least 23 other alleged criminal sexual psychopaths held at Iowa State Hospital were scheduled to undergo the experiment, which also would compare drug usage to the surgery.

Mr. L.'s attorney, Robert Burt, fought the surgery, claiming his client's agreement to the operation was not truly voluntary because his only alternative was continued confinement in the institution.

Opposes Viet aid

CARDIFF, Calif. (UPI) — Joe McCain, whose father, now a retired admiral, once commanded U.S. Navy forces in Vietnam and whose brother is to be freed from a Communist POW camp Wednesday, said Monday the United States should not give aid to North Vietnam until all those missing in action are accounted for.

"I'll be damned, if one brick or dime should go to Hanoi until there has been a complete and satisfactory accounting," said McCain.

X-rays may cause cancer

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Frequent tooth and chest X-rays can trigger cancer in a susceptible person, medical researchers have told the Senate Commerce Committee.

Dr. Irwin D.J. Bross, of Roswell Park Memorial Institute in Buffalo, testified Monday that, in one study, more than 40 per cent more of those suffering from cancer or leukemia had been exposed to X-rays than those who did not have cancer.

While this alone might not be conclusive, Bross said that when persons whose previous medical histories classified them as "susceptible" to cancer were isolated, there were 400 to 800 per cent more cancer patients who had been X-rayed than in those who had not.

Bross, Seymour Becker, chief of the Suffolk County (N.Y.) Health Department Radiation Control Unit, and Richard H. Sandler, energy consultant to Ralph Nader all urged a halt to the current widespread use of diagnostic x-rays.

"If a doctor can't give a good medical justification, then the patient should say no to a routine X-ray," Bross said. "The giving of routine chest X-rays or tooth X-rays every six months as a method of improving health services is fading out."

"Before a person submits to an X-ray, he should ask the doctor if it's needed, ask to see proof that the machine is in full compliance with state standards, and finally ask if the doctor is qualified to take the X-rays," Becker said.

CIA denies civilian on official business

WASHINGTON (UPI) — State Department officials say they want to learn how Bobby Joe Keese, a civilian from Texas, came to be a captive in North Vietnam.

Keese is one of 108 prisoners of war scheduled to be freed Wednesday by North Vietnam. His name appeared on a list of prisoners furnished by Hanoi to U.S. officials when the Vietnam cease-fire was signed.

Fellers former residents

TWIN FALLS — Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Feller, Caldwell, who were killed in a traffic accident Saturday night three miles east of Caldwell, are formerly from Twin Falls and Rupert.

Mr. Feller, 41, was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Felix Feller, Twin Falls. His wife, Vadis, also died in the accident. Their vehicle collided with one driven by Dennis Erickson, 23, Kimberly. He and a passenger, Albert Leslie, 22, Choyenne, Wyo., also died in the crash.

Parents of the Caldwell man said funeral services will be conducted in Caldwell Wednesday with burial in Weston on Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Feller are also survived by four children. His sister, Mrs. Floyd Miller, also resides in Twin Falls.

Jan. 27, but the name was not made public until this week because the State Department had no idea who he was.

"It's one of the stranger stories of the year," a State Department spokesman said Monday. "To tell the truth, we're anxious to get him back here and ask him about it ourselves."

The officials said they had no idea who the man was or what he was doing in North Vietnam until "very recently." State Department sources said North Vietnam had listed Keese as a military POW but that the U.S. armed forces had no record of him.

Neither did the State Department have any record of a civilian by that name anywhere in Southeast Asia.

"We went back through file after file," a spokesman said. "Finally, we ran across a report attributed to a Thai pilot who said that in September of 1970 he either flew or was caused to fly an American civilian to North Vietnam."

"Apparently they put him down on a beach in North Vietnam.

"At the time we first saw that report we discounted it because it was so far out. We didn't think there was anything to it," but apparently there was.

What happened to Keese after he was set down on the beach remains, for the time being at least, a mystery.

"We have no record of his even being in Thailand, much less North Vietnam," the spokesman said.

The State Department denied Keese was affiliated with the Central Intelligence Agency. The spokesman said he apparently was a "totally private individual" who was "apparently acting on his own."

Keese originally lived in Amarillo, Tex. His parents have since moved elsewhere in the Southwest but have requested that the State Department not make public their address because of the bizarre circumstances surrounding their son's adventure.

Hospital board studies expansion bond issue

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Magic Valley Memorial Hospital Board members voted Monday night to seek the sentiments of the county toward a bond issue for hospital expansion.

Board members asked Chairman Robert Brackett to name a committee to feel out taxpayer sentiments as to whether or not they are ready to support additional hospital facilities at this time.

It was suggested the committee, when appointed, also attempt to determine how much money and how much hospital expansion should be undertaken at this time.

The 1973 continuing hospital improvement program was given preliminary approval by the board and will be submitted to the Comprehensive Health Planning Agency for approval.

James Rosenbaum, administrator, explained this approval is now required on all hospital improvements where federal funds are used in any form. He said the medicare program alone would require such approval.

R. W. Pierce, Filer, building committee chairman, said the Comprehensive Health Planning Agency, which now has a Magic Valley office, is designed to help hospitals in gauging their building programs to future needs. It can in many instances prevent overbuilding, he said.

The proposed 1973 program, Rosenbaum said, was approved by the building committee and executive committee earlier and lists five items in order of priority. The entire program, he said, would cost about $204,000 and part of it is contingent upon a two per cent hospital rate increase pending before the state Advisory Board, Wage and Price Control Council.

The first item involves relocating the hospital records department from the first floor to the basement. This would provide space for better records storage and make the department more accessible to all doctors and staff members.

Cost would be $15,000 and funds are now available for this. Target date for the move is May 1, Rosenbaum said.

A second priority item is remodeling the west wing of the second floor to provide for immediate needs of more patient area. A total of 15 additional beds can be provided to bring the hospital's bed capacity to 141, Rosenbaum said.

He said hospital occupancy is running at more than 82 per cent and has been for some time. Relocation of beds on the second floor would alleviate the nursing shortages by centralizing their work areas. Estimated cost is just over $55,000.

Reopening of the intensive care unit at the hospital by July 1 is another priority item. This is presently fully equipped but requires specially trained staff members. Cost is estimated at $33,600 for staff only.

Replacement of equipment including the large 200 pound washer in the laundry and an ironer at a cost of $41,900 and replacement of worn equipment in the dietary department at a cost of $30,300 are listed as the fourth item on the priority list.

Fifth is the addition of an inhalation-therapy department at a cost of $33,905. This would provide new technical care for respiratory illness. Dr. Don Katz, chief of the medical staff, told the board such treatment is badly needed at the hospital.

In other business the board acquired a new member, Everett Norris, Hansen. He was sworn in by Wiseman, hospital board chairman.

A report was heard from Mrs. Clara VanHouten, hospital accountant, who discussed new plans for making hospital collections. She recently attended a meeting in San Francisco to review computer and accounting methods.

She reported hospital "write-off" accounts at this time for 1973 are $37,985, compared to $17,022 last year on the same date and said the department hopes to continue the figure downward.

New hearing set on rate hike bid

TWIN FALLS — A rehearing on the requested special two per cent rate increase at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital will be conducted here March 30.

James Rosenbaum, hospital administrator, told the board of directors Monday night the State Advisory Board to the Price and Wage Stabilization Council has granted the hospital a new hearing.

In January a request was presented for a cost-of-living six per cent rate increase, plus a two per cent additional increase to cover needed hospital improvements and additions.

The state board denied the two per cent hike. Rosenbaum told board members Monday the state advisory board representatives who met here earlier this month said no such increases were granted in Idaho this year.

Rosenbaum said the local board and administration will have a one and one-half hour hearing on March 30 to appeal for the increase. He urged all board members to be present and said the time of the hearing will be announced when determined.

The proposed two per cent rate increase will give the hospital operating money for additions of new state hospital structural requirements such as new fire resistant doors, and will allow for continuation of the annual improvements and expansions scheduled for the 20-year-old building.

Robert Brackett, hospital board chairman, will name three hospital board members to work with Rosenbaum in setting up a management study program. The study, Rosenbaum explained, will be to determine if personnel is now being fully utilized.

Dr. Ben F. Katz, chief of the medical staff, met with the board to discuss hospital programs. In conjunction with planned improvements, he said the hospital's need for more bed space may result more from more doctors practicing in the community and a change in medical practices than in population increase.

He said there are as many as 16 surgeries scheduled each day which contributes to the bed shortage and also to a nursing shortage. He also discussed hospital auxiliary plans to acquire a kidney machine for the hospital which, he said, would be a benefit.

Council airs problem aids

TWIN FALLS — Prevention of learning problems by early detection of symptoms was discussed Monday before the Twin Falls County Extension Council.

Merle Stoddard, director of the Easter Seal Center where many learning problems and other difficulties involving small children come for correction, discussed her newly published book, "The More Perfect Baby and Prevention of Learning Difficulties Through Freedom of Movement."

Mrs. Stoddard said the book could benefit parents of small children in detecting early signs of learning problems. She also announced she will appear April 10 on a television program concerning the book's material.

Mrs. Fred Montgomery, council president, conducted the meeting and announced the selection of the Salmon Trout Club as winner of the Sharp Award for 1972.

The award is given for the most outstanding scrapbook compiled each year by an extension club.

Other submitting entries were the Spring Club, Kimsen Club, Filer Civic Club, Merry Marriels and The Country Pals. There are 10 extension clubs in the county.

Plans were made for the district extension meeting April 24 in the Gooding Grange Hall. Clubs are asked to pre-register if possible. The Twin Falls County Council and member clubs will provide table favors and name tags for the district meeting.

A work party will be March 19 at 1:30 p.m. in the old hospital building with Wayne Thiessen, Twin Falls soil specialist, presenting a program on organic gardening.

It was also announced the Twin Falls Canning Kitchen's annual meeting will be March 21 at 8 p.m. in the Idaho Power Co. auditorium in Twin Falls.

The next meeting of the county council will be May 14 in the old hospital building.

TF man gets prison term

TWIN FALLS — Dan Wilton Dunn, 46, Twin Falls, was sentenced to 10 years in the custody of the Idaho State Board of Corrections Friday.

Judge Theron W. Ward sentenced Dunn to the prison term on a charge of forgery. Dunn had pleaded guilty to the charge in Fifth District Court on Feb. 23. He was arrested Feb. 16 after being transported from Nevada by Twin Falls sheriff's deputies.

Dunn was accused of forging a check for $142.81 in the name of one of his employers, and presenting it to Shelby's Market on Nov. 23, 1972.

TWIN FALLS — County commissioners awarded contracts Monday for the purchase of four new vehicles for the county sheriff's department.

The county awarded a contract for two sedans to Bill Workman Ford in the amount of $5,980 for the two vehicles with the trade-in of 1970 Plymouths. The other contract to Bill Workman Ford was for a stationwagon in the amount of $3,391.33.

A fourth vehicle will be a 1973 Chrysler purchased from Rob Reese Motor Co. for $3,781.18. All bids included trade in vehicles.

Kiwanis chiefs honored in TF

TWIN FALLS — Past presidents of the Kiwanis Club were honored at a dinner Monday evening at the Holiday Inn.

Eighteen of the 20 past presidents who still reside in Twin Falls were present.

Since the club was established, 52 community leaders have headed the organization, serving one-year terms. Under Kiwanis' rules each officer can serve only one year and can hold the top office only once.

U. N. Terry, who was president 31 years ago, was singled out as the one who served earlier than any other. Presidents from 1921 through 1941 are deceased.

Other past presidents attending were Ernest Gyer, Dr. Joseph W. Marshall, Juneau Shinn, Ray J. Holmes, O. A. (Gus) Kelker, Kenneth Phillips, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Robert High, treasurer; Mrs. Tom Utterback, historian, and Mrs. John Doerr, publicity chairman.

Mrs. Vernon Ball and Mrs. John Gibney were elected members at large.

The Secret Mission To Kensett

WASHINGTON — The bill of White House aide Peter Flanagan's secret mission to Kensett, Ark., to achieve its immediate goal threatens a confrontation between President Nixon and Rep. Wilbur D. Mills with dangerous implications.

Flanagan was dispatched to Kensett, where Mills is recuperating from an ailing back, after Mills three times in a week called for Mr. Nixon to impose an emergency 15 per cent surcharge on imports. In Arkansas, Flanagan expressed doubts about both the wisdom and legality of Mills' proposal. Returning home, he told the White House his mission had succeeded, a judgment presidential aides feel has been affirmed by Mills' silence on the surcharge since then.

What Flanagan and his friends do not know, however, is that Mills in private conversations with advisers is reiterating his demand for a surcharge as one part of a wide-reaching response to the monetary crisis. The other two parts: carefully-selected sale of gold by the US in world markets and a tax forgiveness for foreign investors in the US to encourage dollars to flow here.

Thus, the President and Mills may be on a collision course, with implications both local and global. Relying on Mills as chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee to fight irresponsible tax-cutting and tariff-raising and to push for budgetary control, the White House wants no feud with him. It fears even more an open battle over monetary policy with Mills, whose prestige is immense in Japan and Western Europe.

Mills first broached his surcharge proposal at his Feb. 7 meeting in the White House with Mr. Nixon and his economic czar, Treasury Secretary George Shultz. Shultz objected, but Mills came away thinking he had persuaded Mr. Nixon. Instead, the President followed Shultz's advice and devalued the dollar Feb. 12.

Since then, however, Mills has become convinced the devaluation failed and that the crisis needs emergency action — a view concurred in by much of the business community. The difficulty of Mr. Nixon accepting anything close to the Mills program stems from his expert advice by Shultz and Dr. Herbert Stein, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers, that no emergency now exists. Stein bluntly informed newsmen last week that the Mills surcharge is now "irrelevant," obviated by successful dollar devaluation. The next day the dollar sank to its lowest point ever.

When Mills followed by publicly unveiling his 15 per cent surcharge Feb. 16, the White House first thought he was merely warning US Trading partners and had no strategic overview. That follows the administration's private opinion that Mills, unquestioned as congressional master of tax and welfare legislation, is a novice in the game of global economics.

But the White House gradually perceived Mills to be in earnest. They discovered he was consulting with business economist Eliot Janeway, an acerbic critic of Nixonomics, and through Janeway with Dr. Henry Kaufman, economist for Salomon Bros., investment house. Administration officials were amazed at the similarity between Mills' public pronouncements and Janeway's confidential newsletter. Separately, Mills is also consulting Dr. Pierre Rinfret, the economic consultant who was a Nixon campaign spokesman but is increasingly critical of administration policies in reports to his clients.

That's why Flanagan was hurriedly sent to Arkansas, where he argued as follows: It is questionable whether the President has authority to impose an import surcharge. In any event, he surely could not impose a selective surcharge on some items but not others. Yet, an across-the-board surcharge would hit such politically sensitive imports as heating oil, already in short supply.

Price Controls

It is plain that getting rid of wage and price controls, once they have been imposed, is doubly difficult. The Nixon administration, in a surprise move by the Cost of Living Council, has imposed mandatory price controls on major oil companies.

Crude oil and refinery products, chiefly heating oil and gasoline, will be limited to an average increase of 1 per cent without prior government approval. Natural gas prices were not affected.

This is a narrow range but leaves considerable leeway for the companies to make the allowable increase on a single product, gasoline, for instance, when supplies become tight. Shortages have been predicted for next summer.

Heating oil prices posted after termination of Phase II controls in January and February were justified by higher costs, the Council ruled, in allowing them to stand.

The necessity for returning to mandatory controls grew out of the simple fact that demand is outstripping supply. Another factor has been the growing discontent of organized labor with wage guidelines while the cost of food and housing has continued to rise.

As a result, the government is reluctantly considering moves to control food prices in order to prevent a new round of inflationary wage hikes. Farm prices, so far unregulated, have risen sharply and caused labor to demand that the cost of living be held down or wage guidelines be set aside.

A free economy, governed by the law of supply and demand, is normally self-regulating. But the present energy shortage and the high cost of putting meat on the table force a choice between controls or runaway inflation. Rationing of available gasoline supplies has been suggested as another possibility.

The oil price regulations apply to the 20 largest companies. Smaller companies which account for only 5 per cent of total sales generally follow the leaders.

The Pawnbroker

Free Exchange

Despite the Smithsonian monetary agreements of December, 1971, the fixed-parity rates established when the dollar was devalued for the second time on Feb. 12 and the frequent denials by various monetary officials, major world currencies appear headed for a far more flexible exchange system than has been in effect for decades.

Whether it eventually results in a free float for many of the major currencies will be determined by the pattern which unfolds in the next few months. The inescapable fact is that speculators are having a field day with the 80 billion United States dollars in private hands overseas.

There may be attempts to limit the flow of dollars to nations with strong currencies. The U.S. may be invited to intercede to support the dollar parity against selected currencies, as provided for in the February agreement. Or more temporary measures may be employed by some of the governments involved.

But in the final analysis, as long as unsettled conditions prevail, the dollar's exchange rate is going to be determined largely by the law of supply and demand. That could gain the United States a more competitive position in trade than the devaluations and other moves have brought.

Monotonous Life

WASHINGTON (NEA) — No one can quarrel with the quest for new freedoms in our society, especially in areas of life where they may have been long denied. But the trend is carrying with it the perilous illusion that freedom means, among other things, the near total escape from monotonous, repetitive, routine effort.

The celebrated rebellion of automobile assembly-line workers at Lordstown, Ohio, has dramatized this notion. So has the refusal of many young people to take jobs in enterprises demanding disciplined routines — or even to take any work at all.

There is no way to talk about this matter without dwelling on things that are obvious. Thus is the case because, despite their obviousness, many in America and in Western society appear to be denying the reality.

The reality, of course, is twofold. Life itself has inherently routine, repetitive, and if you wish to so regard them, boring aspects. On top of that, the whole structure of modern mass production industry (one might say business in the larger sense) is founded on deliberately tailored repetitive performance.

Now, we've all heard about the valiant efforts of some companies to bludge people around, to introduce refreshing variation, etc. Admirable. But fundamentally, if innocently, deceptive.

An assembly line is still an assembly line, and it is not a particularly exciting place to be even for a day. Driving a bus is not only routine, but in today's crushing congestion is a daily aggravation. Collecting, sorting and distributing mail is never going to take on the flavor of a trip to Florida. One could go on endlessly.

All aside from job endeavors, the repetitive elements of the daily living cycle are also obvious and inescapable, unless one chooses to give himself to personal disorganization, meaning dishevelment, uncleanness, slothful habit, mental disarray, and real risk to health and well-being. This is not "freedom," but a sort of crippling disorientation, a calculated disservice to oneself as well as to other humans in the larger social frame.

If many today are in revolt against the two kinds of reality here set forth, it can only be said that their rebellion is sure to fail — because they are in revolt against themselves.

The inevitable monotony of parts of the daily living cycle is, if practiced, of course rigid. But to turn away from it in any full sense is to surrender, to acknowledge an incapacity for living. The scraps of "freedom" gained from a rejection can exact a horrible price in disease, crude underdevelopment as a human being, and, ultimately, futility. Freedom to do what?

As for the monotony of work in industry and business, it began its high phase when mass production society was born, but it surely has existed as long as man has labored. Mass production was created to serve, not to master. But its routines are inherent, and no computerization or automation can shake all of them off.

I find it faintly amusing that some pompous viewers of life in 1973 have "discovered" the boredom of the assembly line and see a "new consciousness" in rebellion against it.

One can argue that in a less affluent world jobs were scarcer and men could not be choosers. Undoubtedly true. But not the whole story.

The secret of living with routine and it shouldn't be one lies to a considerable extent in finding freedom in it, not outside of it. If that sounds a paradox, let it be so. Next time out, I'll try to show how many, many people achieve it.

RAY CROMLEY

It Isn't So

WASHINGTON (NEA) — President Nixon is being prioritized these days by some sections of the Congress and the press for abandoning his family welfare proposals.

He is being written off as being against significant aid to the unfortunate, and described as lacking feeling for human suffering.

But consider the facts. For something over three years Mr. Nixon's men have attempted to get Congress to act on the Nixon formula for family assistance — money, instead of direct services where possible, and greater incentives for the working poor. And what did the Nixon men find?

One major bloc was against any program of this kind whatever — immovably so. Another bloc was so determined to make the family aid so large the government would not be able to fund it by any means whatever. There was no feeling for compromise between those blocs.

What this signifies is most serious. For the successful working of the American system of Congress depends on compromise — not with principle, but a modification by each grouping in Congress of its objectives and points of view — to achieve some patchwork majority can agree to. It recognizes that no one group can have its own way.

But what we have developing in welfare and in other fields, is a polarity, politics above all — a divisiveness not as between Democrats and Republicans, but a cleavage based on small cliques, each saying everyone must go with them or they won't play ball.

This is a syndrome which has plagued a score of major countries over the years. The eventual result, in practice if not always in name, is a slew of small splinter parties or cliques within parties, unable to get together. France was strangled for years by this problem. It has been a heavy burden in Italy, in South Vietnam and in a fistful of Latin American nations.

This is not to say it is the obligation of the U. S. Senate, say, to adopt Mr. Nixon's welfare proposals aimed at cleaning up the shocking ineffectiveness, the waste and the outright graft in the present system. It is to say that the Senate does have an obligation to do something meaningful.

For the present system is unworkable, with errors in welfare, as Health, Education and Welfare Secretary Casper Weinberger puts it, up almost to 30 per cent in some states, and a wasteful routine under which huge numbers of family budgets "must be examined montly by month by an army of workers to make sure a telephone is needed."

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Incipient Hernia

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I felt a pain in the lower part of the abdomen or groin and the doctor diagnosed it as an "incipient hernia" and recommended wearing a double truss. I am 64.

1 — Will wearing the truss rectify the condition or just prevent it from getting worse?

2 — Should the truss be worn at all times or just at specific times?

3 — Is there any other method such as hot baths, heating pad, massage or other such treatment to help heal this condition? — F. D.

A hernia, or "rupture" is a weak place in the abdominal wall. Aside from discomfort (which may or may not be present) the real danger is that a loop of bowel or other tissue can push through the weak place and become trapped or "strangulated," which, of course, would be a very serious emergency.

Now let's answer your specific questions:

1 — The truss will not correct the condition at all. It must be properly fitted, naturally, but the purpose is to prevent increase in the size of the bulge. In other words, it's a sort of "restraining wall" at the weak area.

2 — The truss may be removed when you go to bed. But when you are in an upright position, there is more pressure from within the abdomen, and that pressure is what threatens to increase the size of the hernia.

Indeed, anything that increases the pressure inside the abdomen can increase the size of the hernia — if you cough, strain at stool or urination, or do heavy lifting, you increase that pressure.

3 — Baths, massage, heat physical therapy and such things will not correct the condition at all. They cannot. In fact, there is no way to repair a hernia other than surgery — to draw the tissues together at the weakened place.

Your physician very obviously does not think you are in imminent danger, and believes that the truss will keep you comfortable. Otherwise he would have told you.

However, keep in mind that hernia does not get better. If it changes, it can change only for the worse, and that is likely in time, because of relaxation of the fibrous supporting tissue as you grow older.

So have the hernia checked at fairly frequent intervals, and if it is enlarging have it repaired surgically. Have it done while you are still in generally good health, and before it gets too large.

It is not the sort of surgery that should alarm you. Indeed, it is the commonest form of surgery performed on men.

A Relentless Fight

Medical and biological research is operating at an unprecedented level in the United States. The volume of knowledge being added to the store of data on the human body and its vital functions is accelerating almost daily. But medical science still doesn't know how to prevent a common cold or cure cancer.

The reaction of many persons to the scope of research and the lack of imposing new medical treatments or preventatives is impatience. After all, it is argued, cancer has been on the ascendancy in the United States for decades.

Cancer now ranks only second to heart disease as the killer of humans. Why can't it be cured, or at least controlled?

In many cases it can be. One of every three cancer patients can be saved, and some medical authorities believe this ratio could be further improved to one in two, if the disease were detected early enough. But look, someone may say, what happened to polio when a series of biological discoveries led to a vaccine and almost total obliteration of the crippling disease.

But just as cancer now is the subject of research costing hundreds of millions a year, so was polio subjected to an expensive and prolonged search for decades preceding the breakthrough.

Cancer will be conquered. Of that not a doubt is expressed by the medical profession. And all of the day-by-day data collected by thousands of researchers — some of whom, incidentally, are in totally unrelated fields — will contribute to the eventual victory.

One cancer specialist has referred to the voluminous research now under way as the water flowing into a newly-constructed dam. Not much happens until the water reaches the overflow level.

A number of scientific dams are being built which will provide great dividends in the future. Nowhere will they prove to be more important than when the spillover begins attacking cancer in earnest and with relentless force.

Abortion measure passed by House

Saying that "even Herod of biblical infancy or Hitler would shrink in horror and disgust" at the number of abortions that followed enactment of a New York law legalizing abortions, Rep. John Neardon, R-Boise, mounted an all-out attack on the bill.

The measure would permit abortions in the first 25 weeks of pregnancy, but would require consultation between a doctor and patient; certain hospital conditions and would set other ground rules.

After the 25th week the measure would permit abortions only when the doctor feels one is necessary to protect the health of the prospective mother or the child might not have a chance of living.

"Have we abandoned the common instincts of a barn rat that would protect its young?" Neardon asked.

"When a nation loses regard for life and the sanctity of life it will fall," he said.

"If you choose to be cowed by this implied threat, I want you to know there's no message for you."

"It may be just a little whimper," he said, "but it's a message for you and all the craven cowards of the glory who didn't have the guts to stand up."

"The whimper says 'We who are about to die salute you and may God have mercy on your soul,'" Neardon said.

Rep. Rudy Andersen, R-Boise, said the point of the bill is to make certain Idaho has some regulations on abortions in light of the Supreme Court decision.

Without enactment of this bill, he said, the state will have no criminal abortion law.

But Rep. Gene Winchester, R-Kuna, said he does not see it that way.

"Good never made a compromise with evil," Winchester said.

"Right never made a compromise with wrong," Rep. Ed Rice, R-Boise, reminded the House that each member signed an oath to support the constitution and the laws.

He said it will be a "black day" when he sees legislators standing on the House floor and saying they are going to defy the Supreme Court of the United States. He said there are legal ways to alter a Supreme Court decision.

"Defiance by this legislature is on the same level as defiance by the black power people," Rice said.

State school's funds approved

Special to the Times-News

BOISE — The Senate passed 35-0 and sent to the governor Monday general fund appropriations of $982,500 for the Gooding State School for the Deaf and Blind for the next fiscal year.

The total agency budget, including federal, endowment and other funds, is $1.06 million.

The general fund increase for the next year over the current one is about $34,000, with the legislature approving about $38,000 more than the governor requested.

MV county aides due wage boost

Special to the Times-News

BOISE — The Senate approved 28-7 Monday pay increases for some of the state's county commissioners.

The proposal, which has already passed the House, raises the salaries of commissioners in all Magic Valley counties except Elmore.

Other salaries for Magic Valley counties include:

- Cassia, increased to $3,600 from $2,400;
- Camas, increased to $1,500 from $1,400;
- Blaine, increased to $3,600 from $2,500;
- Elmore, $4,200, unchanged;
- Gooding, increased to $2,500 from $2,300;
- Jerome, increased to $3,600 from $3,200;
- Lincoln, increased to $1,700 from $1,500;
- Mimodoki, increased to $3,600 from $2,400;
- Twin Falls, increased to $8,800 from $8,400.

Twin Falls County commissioners will receive an annual salary of $8,800 under the new law, an increase from the current $8,400. The increases make Twin Falls commissioners the sixth highest paid in the state, ranking behind those serving in Ada, Bannock, Canyon, Kootenai and Shoshone.

TF prosecutor wins pay hike

Special to the Times-News

BOISE — The Senate Monday gave pay raises to 25 county prosecutors in Idaho, including a $3,500 boost in salary to the Twin Falls prosecutor.

The increase for the Twin Falls prosecutor, to $14,000 annually from the current $10,500, makes the position the second highest paid prosecutor's slot in the state.

The prosecutor in Ada County receives $20,000 annually, unchanged in the measure approved by the Senate Monday, while Kootenai County pays its prosecutor $14,000, also unchanged in the pay increases approved by the Senate.

The measure, which passed on a vote of 27-1, now moves to the House, which must vote on an amendment made to it in the Senate.

The bill raises the pay of six Magic Valley prosecutors. Included are:

- Blaine County increased to $6,500 from $5,500;
- Camas County, increased to $6,000 from $4,400;
- Gooding County, increased to $8,000 from $7,200;
- Jerome County, increased to $7,500 from $7,000.

House guns down mansion funding

BOISE (UPI) — A money-conscious House gunned down appropriations for a governor's mansion and a heating plant Monday to balance the budget and still provide $8.1 million in tax relief.

Taxwriters Allan F. Larsen, R-Blackfoot, and Vernon Ravenscroft, R-Tuttle, led the fight that killed a $1.2 million appropriation for expansion of the central heating plant in the capitol mall.

They said the legislature needs slightly more than $1.4 million in the kitty to balance the budget and still provide the tax relief both houses voted last week.

Their move killed the bill 18-40.

Members of the House State Affairs Committee voted to introduce a bill requiring judicial review of elected officials and setting forth malfeasance, mental incompetence, neglect of duties or corruption as the reasons for recall.

Rep. Larry Jackson, R-Boise, tried to win approval of the ill-fated bill to construct a new governor's mansion, saying it was time Idaho provided a "fitting residence" for its chief executive.

But Rep. Ray Lincoln, R-Twin Falls, said there is a lot of difference between a governor's home and a $600,000 mansion.

Stream, lake protection bills win OK in House

Special to the Times-News

BOISE — The Senate passed Monday and sent to the governor the House version of bills regulating stream channel alterations and lake encroachments.

The House amended both pieces of legislation, first passed in the Senate, stiffening the stream channel bill's penalty clause and altering the procedure for the adoption of administrative rules and regulations in both the measures.

The proposals were drafted by a special ten-man joint subcommittee created earlier in the legislative session to propose changes in the controversial 1971 Stream Channel Protection Act.

Among the changes made by the House in the stream channel alteration bill was the addition of recreational values to the list of concerns to be considered by the Department of Water Administration when granting alteration permits.

The amended version of the law also increases the allowable penalty for a violator of a permit system for stream channel alteration to $2,500 from its original $500, and lowers the bond that must be posted to challenge a permit to $500 from its originally drafted $2,500.

The House also added an amendment onto the bill that requires anyone doing work to repair damage caused by erosion or to protect against erosion must notify the Department of Water Administration before beginning his work.

Tests banned

BOISE (UPI) — A House-passed bill prohibiting the use of lie detector tests as a requirement for employment or continued employment was approved Monday by the Idaho Senate.

The bill will now go to the governor for his signature.

The measure, which passed 28-7, provides that no employer can require an employee or prospective employee to take a lie detector test as a condition for employment or continued employment.

Search panel named

NAMPA, Idaho (UPI) — A search committee of regents, faculty, students, and alumni has been set up to find a replacement for retiring Northwest Nazarene College President Dr. John E. Riley.

Riley, NNC head since 1952, announced plans earlier this year to retire in June.

The committee until April 9 will be obtaining profiles of persons suggested for the job, with a final decision to be made about June 8.

Road funds OK'd

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Senate Monday passed a bill appropriating $85.35 million to the state highway board for the coming fiscal year.

Of the total, $50.5 million will come from the federal government and $33.1 million from the state highway fund.

Sen. Walter Yarbrough, R-Grand View, said the state at present is receiving $10 million in additional funds from the federal government and he urged passage of the bill.

At the same time the Senate approved a measure granting the newly-formed department of environmental and community services $29.5 million of that amount, $24.8 million comes from the state general fund.

The expenditure will cover the costs of operating the department during the coming fiscal year.

Both of the measures will go to the House.

Congress tries hit

BOISE (UPI) — Congressional efforts at welfare reform are futile, says the biennial report of the Department of Social and Rehabilitative Services, because they don't deal with two basic problems.

The report said one question that comes up in debate is "who is entitled to receive public assistance without significantly contributing to the material productivity of society?"

Secondly, "at what level of support should dependent people be maintained by the public treasury?"

Prepared under the direction of SRS Commissioner Dr. John Marks, the report said there must be some agreement on a definition of "who" because programs can be developed to effectively reduce dependency.

Almanac

By United Press International

Today is Tuesday, March 13, the 72nd day of 1973 with 294 to follow.

The morning stars are Venus, Mars and Jupiter.

The evening stars are Mercury and Saturn.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Pisces.

Swiss naturalist Charles Bonnet was born March 13, 1720.

On this day in history:

In 1868, the U.S. Senate began impeachment proceedings against President Andrew Johnson on charges of "high crime and misdemeanors." He was acquitted by one vote.

In 1933, banks throughout the United States started reopening after a bank holiday declared by President Franklin D. Roosevelt on March 6.

In 1969, Apollo 9 returned from a 10-day earth orbit that successfully tested the moon landing craft.

In 1972, the United States and Communist China opened talks in Paris, the first result of President Nixon's trip to Peking.

A thought for the day: British author Thomas Paine said, "Character is much easier kept than recovered."

Abby

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I have a boss who is more than ready for retirement. Nobody knows how old he is, but he's been with this company for nearly 40 years.

About four months ago he announced that he would retire on a certain date. He kept saying, "Well, 120 days before I leave, 110 days, 90 days, etc."

We co-workers planned a farewell dinner for him, and I collected the money for his retirement gift.

The morning of the farewell dinner he told us he changed his mind. He is not leaving!

We decided to go thru with the dinner and give him the gift anyway. Nobody knows how much longer he will be here.

Warhorse can't go

Have you ever heard of anything so crazy? And what can we do about it?

DEAR STEAMED: What's so crazy about a man changing his mind? When he retires, just say, "Goodbye."

DEAR ABBY: Over a year ago I had some serious emotional problems, and because of my bad behavior my wife left me. Then I did something right for a change. I went to a psychologist. She saw me three times a week, which helped me tremendously. Now I am seeing her only once a week. My psychologist is a single woman, about 40 years old. She is a very understanding person. My problem now is that I am stuck on her!

I would like to see her outside her office. Don't get me wrong. She never did anything to encourage my feelings for her. Should I tell her how I feel about her? I want to, but what if she gets mad at me? Then she wouldn't even see me in her office, and I couldn't stand that. Please tell me what to do.

DEAR UNDECIDED: Tell your psychologist how you feel. She'll know how to handle it, and she'll help you deal with your feelings. That's what you're paying her for.

DEAR ABBY: I play piano in a piano bar club. Many customers request special songs, and to show their appreciation they offer to buy me a drink. I don't drink on the job, so I simply say, "No thanks, I never drink while I'm working." They smile and that's the end of it.

Abby, if they'd give me the money instead of the drinks I would be very, very happy, but how does one convey this idea to the customers without coming across as a "money-hungry musician"? If they are willing to buy me a drink, shouldn't they be just as willing to part with the price of the drink?

DEAR NAMELESS: Find a playboy in the shape of a kitten and decorate it with the following message, "I'm not thirsty—but you may feed the kitty." Set it on the piano, but don't play. "The best things in life are free."

DEAR READERS: I think this is worth noting:

"Every gun that is made, every warship launched, every rocket fired signifies in the final sense, a theft from those who hunger and are not fed, those who are cold and are not clothed. This world in arms is not spending money alone. It is spending the sweat of its laborers, the genius of its scientists, the hopes of its children; . . . This is not a way of life at all in any true sense. Under the cloud of war, it is humanity hanging on a cross of iron."

Do you know who said that? No, not George McGovern. It was Dwight D. Eisenhower, on April 16, 1953, before the American Society of Newspaper Editors. And it's as true now as it was then.

Fiction books for young readers include "Charlie and the Glass Elevator," Dahl; "Twin Spell," Lamm; "About the B'nai Bagels," Konigsburg; "A Girl Called Al," Greene; "The Boy and the Dolphin," Rothberg; "A Walk but of the World," Nichols; "The Snoopy Come Home Book," Schulz; "The Gingerbread Boy," and "Three Little Pigs," both Child Guidance.

Art and craft books added include "How to Make it with Yarn 'N Burlap," and "Plastic Bottle Fun," both by Craft Course; "Egg Carton Magic," Theisen and "You Can Enjoy Stitchery Today," Hayward.

Total circulation for February was 402 books, the librarian said. Library hours are from 3 to 5 p.m. Monday, Friday and Saturday.

Birth control Japanese style

LONDON (UPI) — Britain and the world have a lot to learn from the Japanese way of birth control, the medical journal World Medicine said today.

The Japanese have found that many unwanted pregnancies occur in winter because it is too cold to get out of bed to fetch a contraceptive.

So, World Medicine said, Japanese housewives are advised to sew a special pocket in their pillow for contraceptives or to put one in their husband's nightgown pocket each night.

MR. AND MRS. DAVID ANNIS

Oregon miss, Filer man recite vows

FILER — The Clackamas Park Baptist Church, Milwaukie, Ore., was the setting for the marriage of Marlene Politt and David Annis Feb. 24.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dennis Perkins, assisted by Gary Politt, brother of the bride, before altar bouquets of pink gladioli and white carnations, and two candelabra with white tapers.

The bride is the daughter of Capt. and Mrs. Rex Politt, Milwaukie, Ore. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Annis, Filer.

The bride wore an empire-style dress of white satin peau with clasp lace and a high illusion neckline. It featured lace fitted sleeves, a chapel-length train attached to the dress and a lace sash at the hemline. Her three-tiered lace edged fingertip veil was held by a Juliet cap. She carried a cascade bouquet of white carnations and pink roses attached to a white Bible. She wore a gold locket belonging to her mother.

Mrs. Douglas Jones, Twin Falls, was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Kristine Annis, Filer, sister of the bridegroom, and Mrs. Gary Politt, Vancouver, Wash., sister-in-law of the bride. Douglas Jones, Twin Falls, served as best man. Ushers were Steve Annis, Filer, and Larry Annis, Tacoma, Wash., both brothers of the bridegroom.

Terese Politt, Milwaukie, cousin of the bride, was candlelighter. Gary Politt was soloist, accompanied by Rob York, organist.

A reception was held in the church social hall. The white wedding cake was decorated with pink roses and topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom in a pink flower arch. White tapers in white cupid holders accented with pink carnations completed the table appointments.

Reception assistants were Mrs. Carl Stephens, and Mrs. Dean Patzer, both Milwaukie, who served cake. Mrs. George Delamater, Tacoma, and Mrs. Chuck Davis, Milwaukie, served punch.

Mrs. Larry Annis, Tacoma, was in charge of the guest book. Mrs. Donald Coburn, Milwaukie, sister of the bride, was in charge of the gifts.

The couple will reside in Mountain Home where the bridegroom is employed by J. R. Simplot.

Buhl couple slates fete

Buhl — Mr. and Mrs. Don Brannen will be honored at an open house, Sunday at the Lincoln Courts in observance of their 50th Wedding Anniversary.

The event, scheduled between 2 p.m. and 5 p.m., is hosted by the couple's four children and families, Mr. and Mrs. John Brannen, LaGrande, Ore.; Mr. and Mrs. Norbert (Donna) Lassen, Twin Falls; Mr. and Mrs. Robert (Grace) Vieha, Richland, Ill.; and Mrs. and Mrs. Leman (Inez) Messley, Burley. The couple has 13 grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

Donovan Charles Brannen and Inez Glendoris Childs were married March 21, 1923, at Buhl.

He was born Jan. 19, 1897, at Madrid, Iowa, and attended schools in Des Moines. He came to Idaho in 1917 and enlisted in World War I at Filer. He worked in Buhl Schools for 14 years and at the post office for 24 years, retiring in 1961. He is past commander of Buhl American Legion and past District No. 5 commander. He is also past master of Buhl Masonic Lodge AF and AM, past high priest of Royal Arch and past pastor of Order of Eastern Star.

Mrs. Brannen was born in Oakesdale, Neb., Dec. 14, 1902. She moved to Idaho with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Childs, in 1908. She attended Buhl schools and was graduated from Albion Normal School in 1922. She is a member of the American Legion Auxiliary, Order of Eastern Star, Buhl Art Guild, McCallum Club and the Methodist Church.

Brannen was recently discharged from the Veterans hospital following a bout with pneumonia and is now at home.

Special guests at the celebration will be Mrs. Helen Gilchrist, Des Moines, and Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Kirk, Altoona, Iowa, sisters of Brannen.

All friends and relatives of the couple are invited. The couple requests no gifts.

Utah's outlook steady

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — Utah's agricultural economy, in the grip of a decline since the turn of the century, may stabilize in 1973.

Utah Employment Security Department officials said the state's farm industry suffered major difficulties in 1972, but appears to have turned around at the start of this year — "but the trouble isn't over yet."

In 1972 farm employment dropped sharply following almost the total destruction of the state's fruit crop by a late winter freeze.

"In recent months," a department spokesman said, "the level of farm jobs has been recovering and has climbed to 9,800 persons after tumbling to 8,000 in November — the lowest level this century."

But department officials say that in spite of the favorable upturn in employment there are still several problems.

"In central Utah, 1972 was a year of drought for cattlemen. Now, because of insufficient feed, many herds are being depleted," a spokesman said. "Some cattlemen fear that they may not survive the financial effects of the drought."

On the brighter side, there is plenty of snow on the state's watersheds to supply 1973 needs, if the cattlemen can survive through the rest of the winter.

Last December's deep freeze killed many fruit buds. "The extent of the damage is not now known," said the spokesman, "but it is thought to be considerable."

"Also, a late spring freeze this year could further harm Utah's 1973 fruit crop."

Guerry winner in co-op meet

CASTLEFORD — A Castleford youth has won a trip to the Future Farmers of America's American Institute of Co-operatives at Tulane University, New Orleans.

Mike Guerry, son of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Guerry Jr., received the high individual honors in the West Magic Valley District FFA Co-operatives Contest.

As winner of the contest, Guerry, who is a 16-year-old sophomore at Castleford High School, will make the trip to New Orleans July 29 through Aug. 3.

In team competition, Jerome won the first place team trophy with Tim Callen and Shaun Maxey as team members. Maxey was the second high individual in the contest.

Castleford placed second with Guerry and Kevin Kramer as his teammate. Third place went to Hagerman and Lee Cox and Kim Lemmon. Cox received third high individual. Other schools participating were Shoshone, Wendell, Twin Falls and Buhl.

The contest includes a written test and an individual interview concerning the operation of co-operatives. Those administering the contest were Bob Holloway and George Beer from Ida-Gem Dairymen, Inc., and Jack Hyder, representing the Production Credit Association.

The trip for the high individual is sponsored by the Idaho Co-operative Council, who will send eight FFA members, one 4-H member, and one Future Homemakers from Idaho to New Orleans.

The council also sends Young Farmer delegate to the AIC. Local co-operatives in the state make up the Idaho Co-operative Council.

The contest was at Castleford High School with Kevin Varin, Castleford FFA advisor in charge.

Limas register sharp advance

STOCKTON, Calif. Baby limas and large limas registered sharp price advances last week according to the Bean Market News of March 6.

The publication listed blackeyes ranging 35-50 cents higher because of losses and grower holding. Other market demands were light.

Baby limas ranged 1.15-1.25 higher at 16.50-16.75. Large limas were marketed at 30.00. Remaining stocks are considered limited. Prices for blackeyes were 35-50 cents higher at 14.75-14.80. Grower holding was a major factor in the marketing pattern.

Pinks held steady with Idaho grown pinks delivered by truck quoted at 15.45-12.70. Small whites ranged unchanged to slightly higher with trading interest averaging below normal at mostly 16.25.

Prices for light red kidney beans were unchanged at 26.00-27.00. Garbanzo prices reflected minor changes, with winning quality beans at 25.50-26.00 and packaging quality at 25.00-25.50.

Milk output rises

BOISE (UPI) — Milk production in Idaho during January was seven per cent more than the same month in 1972, according to the U.S. Department of Agriculture Reporting Service.

The total for January was 133 million pounds while the year before in January it totaled only 124 million pounds.

American cheese production totaled 3.8 million pounds or 15 per cent above the 3.3 million pounds produced the same month a year ago.

Creamery butter production of 2 million pounds was 100,000 pounds below the 1972 production but ice cream increased from 165,000 gallons to 260,000 gallons.

Dairying meet set in Boise

BOISE (UPI) — The Third Western Dairy Conference with representatives from 11 western states will open Wednesday at the Rodeway Inn.

The first day of the session will feature a tour of DCA butter plant facilities in Caldwell and several valley dairy farms.

Formal sessions will open Thursday at 9 a.m. with a welcome from Gov. Cecil D. Andrus.

Among the speakers is Robert Miller, Washington D.C., economic-research service, on the outlook of the dairy industry. Dr. A. M. Mullins, dean of the University of Idaho College of Agriculture will address the luncheon.

Blaine board hears variety of issues

By TERRY CAMPBELL
Times-News writer

HAILEY — Questions were raised about a wide variety of local school issues before the Blaine County School District board of trustees Monday night.

The topics ranged from Senate Bill 1021 to the study toward a new district high school. Dr. Paul Heuston, Ketchum, made a lengthy presentation which, he said, constituted an urgent appeal for clarification and/or verification of matters we feel should be public information.

Dr. Heuston said the presentation was an outgrowth of petition campaigns initiated at the request of a school board member to solicit comment on selection of a new superintendent and in response to the recommendation of Walter Hoesel to the post during a Feb. 12 board meeting.

Hoesel, who serves as on site coordinator for the Northwestern University directed study for the new high school, has since withdrawn his application for superintendent.

During Monday's meeting, trustee chairman William Mallory said the board presently has about 12 applications for the position to succeed former superintendent Charles L. Clark. The board set March 20 as the date to begin interviews.

Dr. Heuston presented two petitions to the board, containing a total of about 300 signatures.

The first petition, formulated by Harvey Dickett and Joseph Wurst, both Gannett, opposes the hiring of Hoesel and instead recommends the hiring of Ray Jefferson, present acting superintendent, as superintendent with Phil Homer, Wood River Junior High School principal, as assistant superintendent.

A second petition, initiated by Dr. and Mrs. Heuston recommends "due consideration" to all applicants to the post — a position backed in February by the Wood River PTA — and recommends the new superintendent be "someone familiar with the aspects of living and teaching in this resort area county."

Mallory, Jefferson and Hoesel made initial comments on Dr. Heuston's presentation. However, Mallory requested additional time for the board to research each question raised in the study.

Hoesel said the intent of the study was to "arouse community interest and real, detailed involvement in what is going on in the schools." He said the school study presently has about 70 citizens involved in various stages.

Dr. Heuston prefaced his comments by stating "we are not discussing personalities here this evening, rather we are concerned with differences in philosophy."

The first topic covered by the presentation was Senate Bill 1021, which Dr. Heuston said could possibly have the effect of transferring the Yale area out of the Blaine County School District, resulting in the loss of about $33,000 per year in school taxes.

"On delving into the matter on Mr. Mallory's request," Dr. Heuston said, "we found that the superintendent's office had been aware of the bill and had at least in part been lax in its responsibility to bring it to the attention of the citizens of Blaine County in time to effectively oppose its passage in the House and Senate."

In response, Jefferson said, "our (the district's) concern is as great as anyone's" and said the bill had already passed the house when he had learned about it.

"The acting superintendent said the bill had previously been in effect, but the new bill amends the area involved in possible redistricting. He said in the past the State Board of Education had conducted hearings in both affected districts, but the bill contains no assurance the practice will be continued."

Secondly, Dr. Heuston stated an "error had been committed on budgeting last year because of apparent poor communication between the superintendent's office and the office of the county assessor."

In consequence, Dr. Heuston said, "funds were not requested and allocated and the budget thus being underestimated results in unnecessary shortness of funds for our schools, for textbooks and supplies."

Jefferson responded by citing the difficulty involved in procedure requiring spring budget certification, in "dollars and cents" figures, prior to setting of mill levies in early fall. He said the superintendent's office had "worked very carefully with Del Nicholson, county assessor."

A third topic of Dr. Heuston's presentation concerned one source of funds for the Northwestern University study.

Dr. Heuston said Mallory had stated last fall that a grant had been made "from an undisclosed source" which would partially pay for the evaluation study.

Dr. Heuston said he found this non-disclosure "very intolerable and unacceptable." However, he said, based on information which he said he thought to be "accurate, though not official" that the funds were donated by the Welch Foundation, Chicago, Ill., and the source was Dick Welch, Ketchum.

"Also, it has been learned that this foundation is a benefactor of Northwestern University," Dr. Heuston said.

The doctor mentioned a possible involvement of Welch and the foundation in a teaching machine corporation.

Dr. Heuston questioned what he called a "hurry up decision" last fall in hiring Hoesel to head the project and asked "why Northwestern was chosen over other possible evaluation teams."

"It has been brought to our attention that at the time Mr. Hoesel was recommended for the position of superintendent of our schools he had not yet been certified to qualify to fill that position."

However, Dr. Heuston said Hoesel's certification "did follow the next week or 10 days after his nomination and this came from Northwestern University."

A further concern, Dr. Heuston said, was the hiring by the board and the superintendent of what he called an "unqualified and non-certified individual as principal" for one of the district's elementary schools.

According to information obtained from the State Department of Education, teacher certification department, Dr. Heuston said that the principal in question, Sam Hazard, at Ernest Hemingway Elementary School, is presently enrolled at Northwestern University to meet certification requirements.

"We have the feeling and I believe justly so that Mr. Welch and Northwestern University are trying to place men of their thinking in key administrative positions in our school system that they might more easily and rapidly accomplish their goal, namely to establish an educational system not desirable to the majority of the taxpayers of the Wood River Valley and a system that we cannot financially afford," Dr. Heuston said.

The doctor said that he felt the study team from Northwestern University "is not able to give us an unbiased, professional evaluation," of plans for the new school.

"We have been able to produce college bound students from our school system so we have proof that it meets the requirements of an adequate program," Dr. Heuston said.

"We want the basic skills stressed and we also want a progressive program, but it has to be something that we can afford," he said.

Jerome plans vote

JEROME — The Jerome School Board has set April 24 as the date for the school trustee election.

Warren Kays, clerk of the board, said that two petitions have been issued by him to Jerome residents seeking a position on the board.

Don Allen has taken out a nominating petition and will be seeking election from zone 1. The present Zone 1 trustee is Jim Keith who announced last week he would not be a candidate for re-election. Keith has served three years on the board.

A petition has also been taken out by Durrell Wolfe who will be seeking election in Zone 2. The present Zone 2 trustee, Leroy Weigle, said last week and re-affirmed today he had not as yet decided whether he will seek re-election as a trustee.

Trustee Dale Vining, Zone 3, who has served six years on the board and is a past chairman, said last week he will not seek reelection.

The other trustees, board chairman Gordon Hollifield, Zone 5, and newly elected trustee William Kersey, Zone 1, have said they would be candidates in the April 24 election. The present board has been serving as an interim board because of the recent rezoning of the school district which, under state law, requires that all trustees be elected between April 1 and May 25. The law also stipulates electors can vote only in their own trustee zone and anyone 18 years-of-age or older is eligible to cast a ballot.

Kays said persons interested in seeking election to the board must secure a nominating petition from his office, obtain signatures of residents in his or her trustee zone and return the petition to the clerk 18 days prior to the election. Kays said the deadline used to be 10 days prior to the election but the law has been changed to the 18 day deadline. All petitions must be in his office by 5 p.m. April 6.

Gooding program slated

GOODING — There will be a diverse education program this spring in Gooding according to Gooding school Supt. James Muscut.

At the Monday night school board meeting, school trustees hired Rex Adamson and Rod Rutherford as drivers education teachers for the two sessions May 29, and July 9. Students age 14 and over are eligible to take the course at no cost.

In other board action Claire Majors, Gooding High School French teacher, received permission to attend a foreign language arts conference in Portland, Ore., May 2-4.

Twin Falls visit

30 attend TF hearings

TWIN FALLS — About 30 persons attended a double session of Idaho Water Resource Board hearings Monday afternoon and evening in the Idaho Power Co. auditorium in Twin Falls.

The hearings, designed to draw forth public comment on an interim water planning study released by the IWRB in September, 1972, sparked some controversy, although only three people made formal statements concerning the IWRB recommendations.

J. Leon Grieve, manager of the Big Wood Canal Co. and American Falls Reservoir District No. 2, said the Water Board study was "very thorough and efficient." His only objections, he said, were that the total budget of the board be published so each district could figure its percentage, and that some provision be made to allow farmers to straighten out streams through their fields to provide more functional irrigation.

"Other than this," Grieve said, "I endorse the interim state water plan." In the evening session, Jim Gannaway of the Idaho Fish and Game Department, speaking on his own behalf, objected to the proposed Lynn Crandall dam on the south fork of the Snake River.

The dam, he said, would destroy about 30 miles of prime cutthroat fishing on the middle Snake and would mean the relocation of residents of Swan Valley.

Gannaway recommended that the Middle Snake make a part of the state's Wild and Scenic Rivers Plan.

An employee of the Idaho Health Department from Blaine County, who asked that his name not be used, told IWRB representatives "the people of Blaine and Camas counties... would recommend to the people of Idaho to do as they are doing and dispatch water back to its source in as high a quality as it was taken out."

He said he objected to earlier statements in the press which degraded the quality of the Richfield Canal. The canal water, he said, is of high quality, despite statements to the contrary and "the press should be more accurate in their statements or in their use of fear tactics."

Twin Falls County zoning administrator, Ed Woods, told IWRB representatives informally that he thought the agency had lost sight of its original aim of getting Idaho water to Idaho people. He said, a tally of IWRB projects and projected systems "seems like too much."

Marshall Edson, public relations officer for the IWRB and chairman of the hearings, told Woods "The board has made a serious effort to get everything considered in this first report."

In other discussion, Edson said that the proposed construction of a new dam at American Falls by Idaho Power Co. would pose no threat to irrigation water users. He said according to proposals, Idaho Power's use of the water would be secondary to the demands of reservoir shareholders upstream and that water levels would be maintained adequate to the needs of the shareholders as determined by them. If water supplies became short, Idaho Power could be in real trouble, Edson said.

Asked if run-offs could be projected to determine the power company's use of water during the winter, Edson said that runoffs could be predicted accurately by "snow measurement and that the power company would have to adjust its water use during winter months to meet projected run-offs."

Edson said he thought recent surveys undertaken by the IWRB in conjunction with the Farmers Home Administration gave an accurate assessment of water and sewage treatment problems in the state's smaller communities.

Jerome enters agreement

By CHARLOTTE BELL
Times-News Writer

JEROME — The Jerome school trustees Monday night unanimously voted to enter into a multi-district one year agreement for the purpose of educating handicapped children.

Earlier this year the trustees made a similar agreement with the nine other Magic Valley school districts to develop a trainable unit for handicapped children to be contracted for with the Child Development Center, Twin Falls, and conducted at the Appelon School in Jerome County.

The new agreement moves the location of the school to the former tuberculosis hospital building at Gooding now to be operated by the Department of Social and Rehabilitation Services.

The participating school districts will pay the ADA state reimbursement funds to the Child Development Center for each student enrolled from their district and will also provide transportation for the students to and from Gooding.

"The Jerome School District will make application to the State Department of Education for six ancillary personnel, which will include two psychologists, two speech therapists and two social workers. The CDC will provide housing for the ancillary personnel at the Gooding facility."

The ancillary personnel will also serve the participating districts according to student population, diagnosing and serving handicapped children. They will make regular visits to the school districts to help with the handicapped children that are not receiving training at the tuberculosis hospital, trustees said.

In other business, the trustees: Approved a request by high school principal Jerry Diehl to raise the present 36 credit requirement for graduation to 38 credits for the 73-74 school year.

Approved a request by Carter Luther, vocational agriculture teacher, to take four students to Oklahoma City May 2-3 to compete in the International Band Judging Contest.

Approved the 73-74 school calendar, which is uniform with other school districts in the Magic Valley with the exception of Burley. The first day of school will be Aug. 27 and the last day May 24.

Action on a proposed salary schedule for the district, which included a five per cent raise for all professional staff was delayed until more definite figures are available from the state on the district's revenue.

Board chairman Gordon Hollifield said he did not see how the board could pass the salary schedule without more

Death cause determined

TWIN FALLS — County Coroner Clyde Edwards said today 12-year-old Randall Sheldon died Monday of head injuries sustained in a motorcycle accident near Hagerman Sunday.

Edwards said the boy, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Karl Sheldon, Twin Falls, was riding through a rough desert area but was not on the motorcycle race course when the accident occurred. He also said the youth was not wearing a helmet and apparently lost control of the two-wheel vehicle when it went over a bumpy section of ground.

Edwards said this was the second accident of the day involving the same area. Manfred Johnson, 27, Heyburn, suffered a fractured jaw and shoulder when his cycle hit a ditch in the same area.

An ambulance was returning to the scene from taking Johnson to Magic Valley Memorial Hospital when the Sheldon boy was injured, Edwards said.

Other ambulances were called from Huhl and Wendell, he said, but the Twin Falls unit reached the area first and took the boy to Magic Valley Memorial Hospital. He was then flown to St. Alphonsus Hospital, Boise, where he died Monday of head injuries.

Edwards said there were many spectators and other cyclists in the general area when the accident occurred. Edwards said a doctor and X-ray technician who were in the area attended the boy and remained with him until the ambulance reached the scene.

Cecil Watson, X-ray technician, said the boy was under his cycle when he reached him and had apparently rolled the machine one or more times.

Both accidents occurred about one-quarter mile from the cycle race track near Hagerman. Edwards said an ambulance is maintained at the race scene during all races but in the past five years nearly all injury accidents have occurred in the surrounding area rather than on the race track.

Wendell teacher resigns

WENDELL — The Wendell school board accepted the resignation of Ray Herd, junior high coach and social studies teacher, Monday night.

The board will be seeking a replacement for Herd effective March 20.

The board approved hiring a special education teacher for the Wendell school district for next year and voted to join in a cooperative Northside school unit for special education.

According to Supt. Lawrence LaTone the nine school districts will work together with the Child Development Center in Twin Falls in providing special education for trainable students.

The trustees approved several trips: two English teachers will attend a workshop at Idaho State University April 6 and 7.

Lincoln plans trustee vote

SHOSHONE — April 9 has been set by the Shoshone School Board for the annual trustee election. The board met Monday night at the high school.

Just one trustee is to be elected this year. This is in Zone 5 and is for a three-year term. It is presently filled by Waldo Jones.

In other business, the board set 8 p.m. April 23 for the annual budget hearing.

The board also took under advisement the proposal from the Shoshone Teachers Association, which would recognize the group as the representative for negotiation.

Presenting the material to the board were Gene Harris, Ed Anderson and Gail Serr, all from the teachers committee. The board will meet in special session on March 26 to further study the proposal.

High School Principal John

Meeks presented curriculum recommendations prepared by the junior and senior high school faculties.

Supt. Kenneth Crothers said the board is considering a special education agreement which would involve the nine schools in Gooding, Jerome and Lincoln counties.

The proposal will provide a special education program for trainable children at the TB hospital in Gooding.

Personnel would be hired with state and school district monies and would provide testing to all the children who needed it in the districts. The Child Development Center in Twin Falls would serve as coordinator and director for the program.

Crothers said March 9 and 12 was designated as emergency closure days for the Shoshone schools due to illness. Schools are open again today.

Minidoka gives two contracts

RUPERT — Minidoka County commissioners awarded two construction contracts to Wright Construction, Rupert, in a meeting Monday.

The Rupert firm will build a 7,200 square foot asphalt parking area for $1,600 near the new law enforcement center northwest of the county courthouse. The builders will also construct curbing and sidewalks for the law building for $1,283.

In other action, the commissioners: Hired Walter Schroeder, Rupert, as an assistant to the caretaker at the county landfill. He will begin work on April 1 at $175 per month. The position was vacated Monday when Paul Biles resigned.

Agreed to sell copies of a Minidoka County comprehensive water and sewer plan for $5.00. The comprehensive suggested retail price of the manual is $12.50.

Buratto is picked for BSC post

Steve Buratto, 29, head wrestling coach and assistant football coach at Twin Falls High School, is being recommended by the Boise State College athletic department for the position of Bronco defensive secondary and outside linebacker coach.

Lyle Smith, athletic director at BSC, said Monday that the recommendation is being made subject to approval of the Boise State administration and the state board of education.

Buratto will replace Jim Wagstaff, who resigned to join the staff of the Los Angeles Rams professional football team.

Buratto is expected to assume his duties, subject to approval, by April 1.

He is a graduate of Clarkston, Wash. High School. He attended Columbia Basin College in 1961-6 and then entered the University of Idaho. While at Idaho, he played center on the Vandal football team and was team captain his senior year.

Buratto received his bachelor's degree from Idaho in 1966 and his master's from the same school in 1972.

He had two tryouts with the Green Bay Packers in 1966 and 1967. He was a teacher and coach in the Bonner County School District at Sandpoint in 1966 and 1967. In 1968 he moved to Twin Falls High School.

Along with his coaching duties, Buratto taught French and Spanish.

"I am happy that coach Buratto has made himself available to Boise State," said Bronco Head Coach Tony Knap. "I am sure that he will make very significant contributions to our program. I am looking forward to working with him. In pursuing a replacement on our coaching staff, I looked first to the coaches available in the state of Idaho. A number of these coaches possess all the qualities that I think are necessary to be successful in the college ranks. Steve Buratto has these qualities," Knap said.

Buratto and his wife Beth, have three children, one boy and two girls.

Frisch is praised as one of game's greats

WILMINGTON, Del. (UPI) — Flory Frankie Frisch, a member on baseball's Hall of Fame as one of the game's greatest second basemen, died Monday at the age of 74, one month after an auto accident in which he was critically injured.

Known as the "Fordham Flash" because of a brilliant athletic career at Fordham University in New York where he captained both the baseball and football teams, Frisch broke into the major leagues in 1919 without ever having played in the minors. He was plucked right off the Fordham campus by legendary Giants manager John McGraw and proceeded to lead the Giants to a National League record four consecutive pennants from 1921-24 when he batted .311, .327, .348 and .328, respectively.

"Baseball has lost a great Hall of Famer and one of the finest all-around players in the history of the game," said Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn, who was in Monterrey, Mexico, when notified of Frisch's death. "He loved baseball and he loved life. Frank was not only a favorite with his fellow stars but a valued personal friend. Very few were more considerate of others, especially of young people. He will be missed by all of us."

The raspy-voiced Frisch, who followed his brilliant playing career by managing the St. Louis Cardinals' famed Gas House Gang to the 1934 world championship, swerved off Interstate 95 near Elkton, Md., Feb. 8. He was driving alone at the time of the fatal accident and was listed in critical condition every day of his hospitalization at the Wilmington Division of the Delaware Medical Center. He was pronounced dead at 7:25 a.m. with the official cause of death attributed to cardiac arrest.

Frisch is survived by his wife and a brother.

A 5-foot-11, 185-pound switch-hitter, Frisch compiled a .316 lifetime batting average and between 1921 and 1934 he failed to hit .300 or better in only one season. He was a swift and aggressive baserunner and led the National League in stolen bases three times.

Frisch, almost more than any other player, exemplified the batting spirit of McGraw while he was with the Giants but he and his manager eventually had their differences which led to Frisch's trade to the St. Louis Cardinals following the 1926 season in exchange for another Hall of Famer, Rogers Hornsby.

Frisch contributed heavily to pennants won by the Cardinals in 1928, 1930 and 1931 when he batted .300, .346 and .311.

In the early '30s, the Cardinals were a maverick group composed of such zany, but talented players as Dizzy and Paul Dean, Pepper Martin, Leo Durocher and Joe "Ducky" Medwick and Frisch became their manager during the 1933 season. The following year, in his first full season at the helm, Frisch's Cardinals won the pennant and then proceeded to beat the Detroit Tigers in a riotous World Series which is best remembered for the fight in the seventh game between Medwick and Max Oslen of the Tigers. Because Detroit was ahead in the American League scoring race at 31.8 points per game, but Dap Essel of Kentucky continues to close in on second place. George McGinnis of Indiana

Issel has a 27.7 points per game average behind McGinnis' 27.7 after Issel scored 140 points in five games last week to 10 in two contests for McGinnis.

There are two new leaders in the weekly statistics, released Monday by the ABA office, as Billy Keller of Indiana broke a tie with Utah's Ron Boone to take over the free throw shooting lead while Roland Taylor of Virginia recaptured the lead in steals from Billy Cunningham of Carolina.

Keller is shooting 87.1 per cent from the line while Boone dropped to 86.7. Taylor outscored Cunningham 12-2 last week and slipped ahead, 197-196.

Artis Gilmore still leads in rebounding, 17.7 per game; two-point field goal shooting, 55.4 per cent; and blocked shots, 2.1. George Lehman of Memphis kept his three-point shooting lead at 30.0 per cent and Bill Melchionni of New York retained his assists lead at 7.4 per game, although Chuck Williams of San Diego is closing in at 7.1.

Mulzoff said that he had no particular school, location in the country or conference in mind. "The only thing important to me is the challenge," Mulzoff said.

Walter McLaughlin, outgoing athletic director of St. John's, said the field for a possible successor is wide open.

Vincennes is tourney choice

HUTCHINSON, Kan. (UPI) — Sixteen teams, including defending champion Vincennes (Ind.), converge Tuesday, along with a bevy of college recruiters, for the National Junior College basketball tournament.

Six first-round games will be played Tuesday with two more Wednesday. The tournament runs through Saturday.

Vincennes (26-3) finished the season with the No. 2 ranking in the national junior college poll and, with the demise of No. 1-ranked Wright of Chicago, Ill., ranks as the tournament favorite.

Wright, which held the No. 1 ranking most of the season, was dropped in the Region 4 finals by unranked Olney Central (Ill.) (23-2).

Host Hutchinson (23-3), Mercer (N.J.) (30-3) and College of Southern Idaho (29-3) are other teams with title pretensions.

Vincennes, which defeated Forcum (Va.), 73-61, in last year's title game, opens against McLennan (Tex.) (28-6) Tuesday.

Hawaii picks new basketball coach

HONOLULU (UPI) — University of Hawaii assistant basketball coach Bruce O'Neil is the unanimous choice of the Athletic Advisory Board to become head coach, replacing Red Rocha.

The nomination of the 27-year-old O'Neil was forwarded to Chancellor Wytze Gortler by athletic director Paul Durheim and now will go to presidential candidate Cleveland who will then transmit it to the board of regents for action.

Rocha was ousted from his post and given the job of athletic coordinator with the new university athletic commission.

When word got out of O'Neil's recommendation as head coach, he received overwhelming support from the players.

A poll showed all but one of the 12 players on this past season's team expressing delight at the advisory board's decision.

Only starting guard Marc Vitale had some doubts, but they were not directed at O'Neil.

Manager blasts

official

WINTERHAVEN, Fla. (UPI) — Boston Red Sox manager Eddie Kasko blasted the American League and baseball commissioner Bowie Kuhn Monday after he was denied permission to use the designated hitter in an exhibition game against Philadelphia won by the Phillies 6-2.

"Here we have a rule, we're playing the game in our own park and we're not allowed to use our rules," Kasko said.

American league umpire Bill Deegan refused to accept the lineup offered by Kasko before the game. It listed Orlando Cepeda as the designated hitter in the sixth spot in the batting order.

"Deegan said he had a directive from (American League president) Joe Cronin, telling him that that designated hitters can't be used in exhibition games with National League clubs," Kasko said. "We've got a stupid rule that nobody wants to make a ruling on."

Coch quits Northwestern

EVANSTON, Ill. (UPI) — Northwestern basketball Coach Brad Snyder resigned Monday, just two days after his Wildcats defeated Minnesota 79-74 to knock the Gophers out of the Big Ten championship.

Snyder, 34, posted a 30-71 record in 4 1/2 years as head coach and had a 5-19 season this year, finishing the year 0-12 in Big Ten play.

"My goal when I took the job was to make Northwestern a winner within four years, but I wasn't able to accomplish it," he said in his resignation statement. "We haven't been able to get the blue chip players and I feel that is 80 per cent of college coaching."

Snyder said his plans for the future are indefinite. He had been on the Northwestern staff since he was captain and most valuable player of the 1960-61 basketball team.

St. John's coach looks for new job

NEW YORK (UPI) — "I'm looking for a new challenge."

This was the reason stated by St. John's basketball coach Frank Mulzoff for his resignation, announced Monday.

Mulzoff was completing the third year of a three-year contract, due to expire on June 30. The university had offered Mulzoff a new two-year pact with a raise, but Mulzoff felt that he belonged elsewhere.

During his tenure as the Redmen's coach, the 44-year-old Mulzoff compiled a 56-27 record, including a 19-7 mark this past season. He led St. John's to two NIT appearances with 18-9 and 19-11 clubs, and took them to an NCAA bid this season.

But although leading the Redmen to a St. John's record of 11 consecutive victories, he also was at the helm during the Redmen's five losses in their last seven games and a 62-61 first-round defeat by Penn Saturday.

There was also reported discussion on the club during the latter part of this season, involving the amount of shots taken by senior Bill Schaeffer.

"The challenge here was to win. St. John's has a tradition of winning," Mulzoff said. "I liked it here, but I feel that I need a new challenge. I'd like to go somewhere where they want to develop a winning tradition."

Mulzoff said that he had no particular school, location in the country or conference in mind. "The only thing important to me is the challenge," Mulzoff said.

Walter McLaughlin, outgoing athletic director of St. John's, said the field for a possible successor is wide open.

Georgia names new cage coach

ATHENS, Ga. (UPI) — Babe McCarthy, who once put his job on the line at Mississippi State by competing against blacks in an NCAA playoff, returned to the Southeastern Conference Monday as the new head basketball coach at the University of Georgia.

McCarthy, 44, resigned as head coach of the Dallas Chaparrals of the American Basketball Association to succeed Ken Rosemond who was fired after eight seasons at the Georgia helm.

The colorful McCarthy, winner of four SEC championships at Mississippi State, immediately set out on a two-day recruiting trip around Georgia after the announcement of his multi-year contract with the Bulldogs. He said he would talk to at least five "blue chip" prospects.

"It's a proven fact that in major college basketball a great freshman can step in and play anywhere," said McCarthy. "We'll certainly be thinking about the freshman who might come in and start for us."

In resigning his position at Dallas, now 24-38 for the year, McCarthy said his assistant, Dave Brown, 37, would take his place for the final 12 games of the year.

Before joining the pro ranks and becoming the ABA Coach of the Year in 1969, McCarthy coached 10 years at Mississippi State.

He produced four Southeastern Conference champions, including three in a row from 1961-63, and compiled a 169-65 record.

McCarthy found his job in jeopardy in 1963 when he defied a court injunction, the school president, and the Mississippi state legislature by taking his team to the NCAA regional playoffs to compete against teams with black players.

"Babe laid his job on the line," says Bailey Howell, one of McCarthy's All-Americans. "When he came back from that, he didn't know if he still had a job."

Wilt is nearing NBA mark

NEW YORK (UPI) — With the National Basketball Association's regular season rapidly drawing to a close, Wilt Chamberlain of the Los Angeles Lakers is closing in equally as fast on his 11th rebounding title.

The 36-year-old Chamberlain now in his 14th

NBA campaign, ran his lifetime rebounding record to 23,632 through games of March 11 and has hauled in 1,334 rebounds this season for an 18.5 per game average. Nate Thurmond of Golden State is second in the rebounding department with a 17.2 average followed by Wes Unseld of Baltimore at 16.1.

Chamberlain also leads in field goal percentage, clicking in a record 712 from the field compared to the 568 mark held by runner-up Kareem Abdul-Jabbar of Milwaukee.

Nate Archibald of Kansas City-Omaha continues to pace both the scoring and assist leaders. Archibald is averaging 34 points a game while Abdul-Jabbar is second at 30.3 and the Kings' playmaker shows 11.4 assists a game compared to 8.1 for runner-up Lenny Wilkens of Cleveland.

Rick Barry of Golden State has connected on 369 out of 439 free throw attempts for a mark of .912 to lead in that department while Jimmy Walker of Houston is second at .893.

Rupert man appointed

RUPERT — George D. Wilding, of Rupert is the new president of the Northwest Athletic Association for the year.

Elected at the group's meeting in Portland, Wilding will preside over the association's annual basketball and softball tournaments.

States within his jurisdiction are Idaho, Montana, Utah, Oregon, Washington and portions of Canada and northern California. He also will represent the area at the national tournament and convention.

Trevino tops PGA coin list

NEW YORK (UPI) — Lee Trevino's gathering steam for a super year and raking in enough money to rate a serious threat to the $300,000 barrier broken last year by Jack Nicklaus.

"Already the Super Man of the PGA tour has pulled in $98,543 after winning his second tournament in three weeks. Trevino's one-stroke triumph in the Doral-Eastern Open was worth $30,000 and his victory in the Jackie Gleason Invitational National Airlines Classic two weeks ago was good for $52,000.

Trevino's total in the ten major events played so far on the 1973 schedule is a record for this time period on the tour. The previous high was Jack Nicklaus' $97,720 earned last year through the Florida Citrus Open. Thus Trevino is ahead of Nicklaus' record setting pace in 1972 when he totalled $820,542.

Issel has a 27.7 points per game average behind McGinnis' 27.7 after Issel scored 140 points in five games last week to 10 in two contests for McGinnis.

There are two new leaders in the weekly statistics, released Monday by the ABA office, as Billy Keller of Indiana broke a tie with Utah's Ron Boone to take over the free throw shooting lead while Roland Taylor of Virginia recaptured the lead in steals from Billy Cunningham of Carolina.

Keller is shooting 87.1 per cent from the line while Boone dropped to 86.7. Taylor outscored Cunningham 12-2 last week and slipped ahead, 197-196.

Artis Gilmore still leads in rebounding, 17.7 per game; two-point field goal shooting, 55.4 per cent; and blocked shots, 2.1. George Lehman of Memphis kept his three-point shooting lead at 30.0 per cent and Bill Melchionni of New York retained his assists lead at 7.4 per game, although Chuck Williams of San Diego is closing in at 7.1.

Mulzoff said that he had no particular school, location in the country or conference in mind. "The only thing important to me is the challenge," Mulzoff said.

Minnesota favored in NIT tournament

NEW YORK (UPI) — Minnesota will beat North Carolina in the finals of the National Invitation Tournament.

At least, that's what the NIT coaches think. Six of the 15 coaches present Monday picked Bill Musselman's fourth-ranked Gophers to win the March 17-25 tourney, and seven others tabbed 20-4 Minnesota and the 22-7 Tar Heels, ranked No. 7, as co-favorites.

Manhattan coach Jack Powers expressed what many coaches might have thought in picking Minnesota. "Minnesota might be the only team in the country, with their size and strength, to stay with UCLA on a given night," Powers said.

Bill Klucen, Musselman's assistant, said he didn't think the tournament had such a clear-cut choice, but "we hope to live up to the role of favorite."

"Most people picked us to win the Big Ten title; too," Klucen said, "but as you see, anything can happen. We enjoy the role of favorite, though."

The Gophers are led by 6-foot-9 forward Ron Behagen and 8-2 center Jim Brewer, both first team All-Big Ten players. David Winfield, the other starting forward, also excels in other sports—he was drafted by the pro football Minnesota Vikings and is expected to go high in the pro baseball draft as a pitcher.

Rutgers coach Dick Lloyd, whose 15-10 team has the unenviable job of facing Minnesota next Monday night in its first round game, said he was "glad to have the challenge to play Minnesota, but we know they're big and physical. We'll have to rely on the fast break to contain Minnesota on the boards."

North Carolina coach Dean Smith thinks his team has a chance to win, but "so many others, too. I think this is one of the strongest fields ever in the NIT."

His Tar Heels, led by 6-9 Mitch Kupchak, 6-10 Ed Stahl and 6-9 Bobby Jones, meet Oral Roberts Saturday night, and coach Ken Trickley is "not looking forward to the game."

Playing North Carolina first is like getting your head shot off, but we'd just as soon play the best at the beginning as at the end. We'd just as soon lose early as late in the tournament if we're going to lose."

Other first-round action sees Notre Dame and Southern California opening the NIT Saturday afternoon in a doubleheader with American University and Louisville. Saturday night Massachusetts will take on Missouri before the NC-ORU clash. New Mexico-Virginia Tech and Fairfield-Marshall games are scheduled for Sunday afternoon, and Manhattan and Alabama meet following the Minnesota-Rutgers game next Monday night.

The winners will meet in quarterfinal action next Tuesday and Thursday, the semifinals are Saturday afternoon, March 24, and the finals are Sunday afternoon, March 25.

Wooden doesn't seem worried about play of Arizona St.

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — If John Wooden is worried—even in the slightest—about Arizona State's fast break, it doesn't show.

"I try very hard not to get too concerned about how the other team plays," the UCLA coach told the Southern California basketball writers Monday.

"I place more emphasis on what we do and not what the other fellow does."

Wooden's No. 1-ranked Bruins face Arizona State in the NCAA West Regionals at Payley Pavilion Thursday night. Third-ranked Cal State Long Beach is matched against University of San Francisco in the other regional game.

The Sun Devils won the dubious right to play UCLA by running past Weber State 103-78 at Logan, Utah, last Saturday.

"I've always considered Ned Walk (the Arizona State coach) one of the best fast break coaches in the country," Wooden continued, "and his team this year, from our scouting reports, runs very well."

The UCLA coach, whose teams have won six straight NCAA titles and 32 straight tournament games, said he would use a press against the Sun Devils.

"Our press hasn't been too good this season—or at least not as good as I expected—but we'll try it and see what happens," he declared.

Wooden seemed happy his 25th regular season at UCLA was over and it was time for the playoffs.

"It's been kind of like a crusade by our opponents this season to beat us," he said, "but it's sudden death now and we're all in the same boat now. One loss and you're out."

Long Beach coach Jerry Tarkenton, whose club has a 25-2 record compared to the Bruins' 26-0 mark, said USC was a stronger team than the one which the Bruins whipped 75-55 in last year's regionals.

"We're going to have to play very good to beat them," he said.

About a possible Long Beach-UCLA confrontation in the finals of the regionals Saturday, Tarkenton said:

"We want to play them and I hope we get the chance. Anything can happen in one game but I'd feel a lot better playing them in our campus gym than Pauley."

"Everybody's been talking about UCLA since Oct. 15 and I'm sure it's in the back of our minds but we have to beat San Francisco first and that's not going to be easy."

Tarkenton said he expected Southwestern Louisiana, Marquette and Providence to win the other three regionals, getting a laugh from the writers when he quipped, "And I think the Bruins probably are favored here."

Bob Boyd, whose University of Southern California Trojans will become the first team to represent the Pacific-8 in the NIT, didn't make any predictions.

"It's going to be an excellent looking game and we're really looking forward to going," he commented.

Slippery Rock wins in NAIA

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Perry Acker dropped a pair of free throws with 13 seconds left Monday night, insuring Slippery Rock (Pa.) State of a 74-73 upset victory over fifth-seeded Marymount (Kan.) in the first round of the NAIA basketball tournament.

Ferris (Mich.) State met Pembroke (N.C.) State in the final game of Monday's first-round action.

Slippery-Rock's victory was the third upset of a seeded team in Monday's first-round action.

Acker's free throws put the Rockets ahead, 74-71, and they allowed an uncontested layup with four seconds left. Mark Bohm led Slippery Rock with 23 points and Peyton Tomblin added 19. Jimmy Hearn led Marymount with 30 points.

A dramatic four-point play with 17 seconds left carried second-seeded Augustana (Ill.) to a 66-65 victory over Hanover (Ind.) and—three-time champion Kentucky State fell under a barrage of free throws in the last six minutes, losing 90-81 to Valdosta (Ga.) State in earlier first round action.

Guyford led, 56-50, at halftime and faltered in the second half, although the margin was never closer than the final score. Ray Massengill led the Quakers with 21 points, while Ronald Person had 20 for Keene St.

Irvin Kiffin sank a pair of free throws with 23 seconds left in overtime to spark Oklahoma Baptist's victory. Wendell Jufries led the Bison with 26 points, while Andrew Tatum was high for Alcorn with 16 points.

In the first two games, Westmont—clouted South Dakota Tech, 85-66, and Delancey ran over George Fox (Ore.), 82-62.

Charlie Mehl led five, Westmont double-figure scorers with 20 points. The Warriors dominated the backboards, 51-29. Doug Schleppe and Jim Kunst scored 24 points each for South Dakota Tech.

George Fox suffered the unlikely experience of not shooting a free throw the entire game in the Bruins' loss to Delancey. Bruce Baer led the Yellowjackets with 17 points, while Rob Wunder had 18 for the Oregonians.

Peterson makes first appearance

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — Fritz Peterson made his first pitching appearance of the spring for the New York Yankees Monday, and the result looked far worse than it was.

Peterson gave up two runs and three hits in three innings against the Atlanta Braves, but Chicago's Alfonso could have prevented both runs.

Peterson said he felt good and "not nervous at all."

"I was having a little trouble with my sidearm stuff to the left-handed hitters, but I was getting my breaking stuff over to the right-handers," said The Peterson after his three-inning stint.

"I'm satisfied with my stuff. The biggest thing I was concerned about was arm trouble and I don't have any."

The subject of national attention in the week since he and fellow Yankee pitcher Mike Kekich revealed they had swapped wives and children, Peterson seemed hardly even noticed by the crowd of 1,200 at Municipal Stadium.

Susanne Kekich attended the game but said she hardly even saw Fritz pitch.

Peterson said he didn't hear anything, but then he wasn't "listening for anything."

For the most part, the crowd did not even know Peterson was pitching until his name was announced in the starting lineup, and even that announcement caused hardly a ripple.

It was just the way Peterson wanted it.

"It's over," he said, "I'll talk to anybody who wants to talk baseball—football, curve balls, that's fine. But now about the other thing. That's over."

Peterson, who still has not signed his 1973 contract, said he has gotten a lot of mail since last week — mostly good.

"He said he hasn't paid any attention to the jokes some people are making about his situation and said he thought those were no reason why both he and Kekich could not remain on the Yankees."

"I'm not catching for me, and he's not catching for me," Peterson said.

Kekich pitched batting practice before Monday's game, but Peterson did not bat against him.

Both Atlanta runs against Peterson were driven in by Hank Aaron.

Bucks defeat sons 126-95

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI) — Kareem Abdul-Jabbar scored 34 points and Oscar Robertson added 25 Monday night to pace the Milwaukee Bucks to a 126-95 National Basketball Association victory over the Phoenix Suns.

Phoenix, paced by 22 points from Neal Walk, managed to stay close much of the first half and trailed 57-46 at halftime.

Milwaukee, which committed 15 turnovers before halftime, led by 15, 87-72 going into the fourth quarter and increased their lead quickly thereafter.

The Suns' top players were held down by the Milwaukee defense. Charlie Scott scored only 12, Connie Hawkins and Dick Van Arsdale 5.

Raiders slip by Chicago

NEW YORK (UPI) — Brian Bradley's second goal of the game with 50 seconds remaining in regulation time gave the New York Raiders an 8-7 World Hockey Association triumph over the Chicago Cougars despite a hat trick by the Cougars' Reggie Smith.

Craig Reichmuth opened the scoring for New York at 2:33 of the first period, firing a 50-roster past goalie Jim McLeod, the Chicago goalkeeper. The Cougars tied it up a 0-1 when Rick Morris fired a 30-foot screen shot. Bobby Sheehan then hit his 32nd goal of the year 13:14 when he converted Gene Peacosh's pass with a slap shot from the left side.

A little more than a minute later, Fleming got first of three goals touching the upper corner with a backhand. Chicago took the lead at 3:21 17:40 when Rosy Palement scored from in front after being set up by Bob Sieniski.

Esposito will win NHL title

NEW YORK (UPI) — Phil Esposito of the Boston Bruins, who has won the National Hockey League scoring title three of the last four years, is only three weeks away from capturing another crown.

The Bruins' center has tallied 105 points on 46 goals and 59 assists and enjoys a comfortable 13-point bulge over runner-up Bobby Clarke of Philadelphia.

Clarke's teammate, Rick MacLeish, is third with 89 points followed by Jean Ratelle of the New York Rangers with 80 points.

A five-way tie for fifth place exists between Jacques Lemaire of Montreal, Chicago's Dennis Hull and Pat Martin and Boston's John Bucyk and Bobby Orr, all with 82 points.

Esposito leads in the goals scored department with 36 while teammate Orr has tops in assists with 62.

Montreal's trio of goalenders, Ken Dryden, Michel Plasse and Wayne Thomas, has allowed only 133 goals in 69 games to lead in the race for the Vezina Trophy, with a goals against average of 2.29.

Patriarca, Gilles Villeneuve and Peter McDuff of the Rangers hold a second place with an average of 2.57.

Dodge jolts 'liner

MADRID (UPI) — Seven persons were injured today when a Boeing airliner was involved in an incident — possibly a near-collision — off Spain's northwestern coast and had to make an emergency landing at Santiago de Compostela, a Sabena spokesman said.

The Spanish news agency Europa-Press said the pilot of a twin-jet Caravelle on a flight from Brussels to Barcelona had to make a violent maneuver to avoid colliding with another plane.

But Jean-Claude Urbain, Sabena's Madrid manager, said the incident was due to turbulence.

"Only we don't know what caused the turbulence," he said. "It may have been another plane passing nearby. The reports are not complete yet."

Officials said six or seven passengers and a stewardess were injured, but none of them seriously. After they were examined by doctors at Compostela, they again boarded the plane which continued to Barcelona.

The Europa-Press account said the near collision happened over the Atlantic in an air corridor which has been heavily traveled in the past days because of a strike in France by civilian air controllers. Several airlines have refused to overfly France.

Mushroom callback national

SOUTH LEBANON, Ohio (UPI) — The Federal Food and Drug Administration has recalled an "astronomical" number of cases of mushrooms canned by Fred Mushroom Products Co.

The nationwide recall was ordered last week following discovery of botulism and progressive decomposition in some of the company's products.

Fred uses a 365-day code and does not indicate on the can what year the product was produced," William R. Clark, Cincinnati area director for the FDA, said Monday. "Therefore, we are recalling all canned mushroom products ever produced by the firm."

Clark said the firm produces more than 48,000 cans daily, but noted it was undetermined how many cases of mushrooms remained on store shelves and in warehouses.

"We will check all recalled products and order Fred to reprocess the cans if no botulism is found. We have also suggested the firm change its coding system to indicate the year a can is packed," Clark said.

Auto theft reported

TWIN FALLS — A Twin Falls man reported to police Saturday night that his car had been stolen from the parking lot of the Beacon Club on 2nd Avenue East.

Dallas Fife told police his car, a 1967 red Pontiac Firebird with spoked wheels and primer spots on the left side, was stolen about 1:30 p.m. Saturday. The theft was reported about 8:30.

The vehicle bears 21456 plates.

Boise man dies

ELY, Nev. (UPI) — Jay M. Smith, 18, Boise, Idaho, was killed Sunday when his pickup truck skidded out of control and overturned on U.S. 93 about 31 miles south of here.

Elizabeth Smith, 19, and Linda Beard, 2, suffered minor injuries.

Officers said the vehicle skidded off the road, veered back on and overturned. It landed on the victim, who had been ejected.

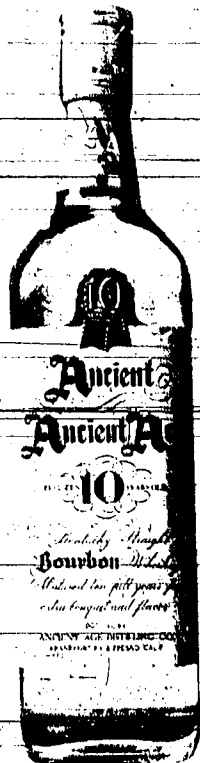

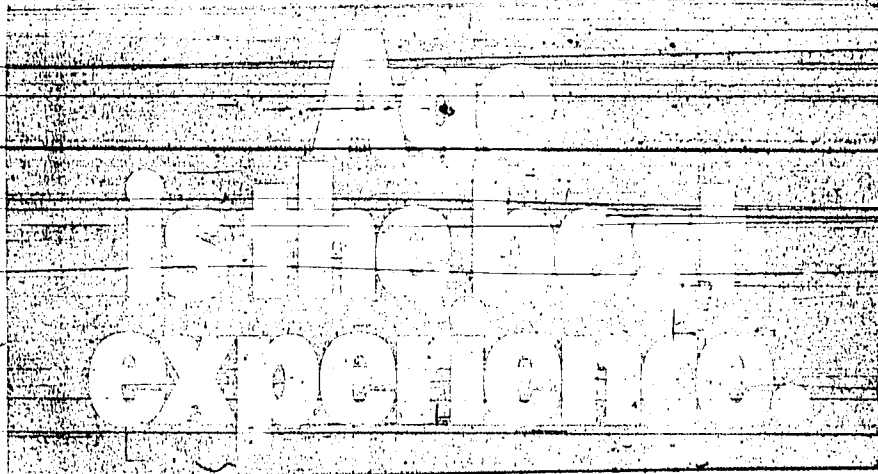

Cutback hit

RECESSION MAY occur if sharp cutback in deficit spending sought by President Nixon is allowed, Leonard Woodcock, president of United Auto Workers, told House Ways and Means Committee Monday. Woodcock said better alternative is heavier spending financed by tax reform. (UPI)

Fund at $125,000

REIDOT, Idaho (UPI) — The Miners Memorial Fund to provide educational opportunities for children left fatherless by the Sunshine Mine fire May 2 has passed the $125,000 mark. H. F. Magnuson, president of the fund, said the total was reached late last week when the fund received a check from the Idaho State Jaycees for $6,877.

Magnuson said the fund will provide vocational training and educational scholarships for the nearly 200 youngsters who were left fatherless by the fire in the Sunshine Mine which killed 91 miners last May 2.

Young player learns patience

by RON BLOMBERG

Growing up in Atlanta, Ga., I always thought of baseball as a way of life.

I couldn't get enough of it. But along with the hitting and fielding I developed a growing irritation for anything that didn't work out for me. I got bugged by things that took time.

This impatience began to carry over into various parts of my life. I felt my not waiting had paid off when, in my senior year at high school, after a good season, the New York Yankees signed me to a major league contract. It all seemed fantastic.

That summer the Yankees sent me to their rookie league in Tennessee. I did pretty well there and felt I would sail right into the big leagues in the next year. Well, the next year the Yankees decided they wanted me to have a bit more training, and sent me to the Carolina League.

After two more years in the minor leagues, I really felt discouragement getting to me and because of it, I pushed extra hard. I was so anxious to be called up that I began to try for home runs every time I got up to bat that year. Sometimes it worked, but most of the time it didn't.

The spring of 1971 I was invited to the Yankees camp and knew it was to be my big chance. I brought my wife Mara down to Florida with me. I told her I had to do it now, or else.

Right away, problems began. I hurt my back chasing a fly ball on the first day of practice. Then, the Yankees said they wanted me to be an outfielder, not a first baseman like I'd always been. I worked hard but couldn't seem to do anything right. I was too eager. I was one of the first players cut. It was to be back to the minors again.

I told Mara that's it. Back home, I moped for several days. One evening Mara and I went to temple and I ran into my old friend and rabbi, Harry Epstein. I told him I had been dropped again by the Yankees but that it was just as well, for I was tired of hanging on.

Rabbi Epstein then asked me what it was deep in my heart that I really wanted to be. I answered with the first thing that came to me — a professional ballplayer.

Then on June 25, the call came. The Yankees wanted me up in the majors. Probably the most memorable event of that 1971 came in September. We were playing Cleveland at home and the game was on the eve of Rosh Hashanah, the Jewish "Well," he said, "It seems to me what you need most is to unhurry yourself. If you sincerely want something, learn to wait for God to put it in place. It doesn't matter if it's baseball or anything else in life. You must have this perspective. There are reasons why God makes you wait. He will help you get there when the time comes."

Two days later I was home waiting for Mara. We were going to the movies and she was slow in dressing. "Hey, c'mon," I yelled, "we'll be late."

Mara came out of the bedroom, still not ready, and gave me a cross look. "Can't you wait for anything?" she asked angrily.

I suddenly realized how far my "hurry-ness" had taken me. "We're not going to the movies," I said quickly. Then I reached for the telephone. I managed to get hold of a Yankee official in New York. I asked him if it was too late for me to report to the minors. No, he said, and the Yankees were wondering why I wasn't there. When Mara and I got to the minor league team in Syracuse, I remembered to do one thing that was to unhurry myself. Then on June 25, the call came. The Yankees wanted me up in the majors. Probably the most memorable event of that 1971 came in September. We were playing Cleveland at home and the game was on the eve of Rosh Hashanah, the Jewish high holiday. This meant that to observe the tenets of my Orthodox faith I would have to end my work before sundown, the beginning of the holy day. Since I had already explained this to the New York Yankee officials and players, they understood that I might have to leave the ball park before the game was over.

The score was tied and it looked like the game was going into extra innings. We had runners on first and third bases, and I was up. Huge shadows now blanketed the outfield of Yankee Stadium as darkness approached. I went to the plate with one eye on the skyline. I was nervous and eager, but the confidence in the God who had helped bring me to the majors was now so deep that I would stop my bat in the middle of my swing and walk off the field if the sun began to set. I looked out and was ready to swing at the first pitch to push things. Then I caught myself. Even though the sun was now only partially visible, I knew I had to wait for the pitch I liked. I watched two pitches go by, then came a high fast ball. I swung and hit it on a line to right field to send home the winning run. With that swing, I took another big step in learning the value of patience. More important, I learned that when you trust God in all things and are faithful to Him, He gives you strength and power in every area of life.
